Nixon, Chou in Long Summit Session

PEKING (UPI) — President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai closeted themselves today in a prolonged private summit session, further exploring ways of opening the wall of hostility between the United States and China over the past 22 years.

Their meeting, lasting well into the evening and including an informal dinner, came a few hours after Nixon declared from atop the famed Great Wall of China that he hoped his China visit would bridge walls of any kind that "divide the peoples of the world."

The President and the premier began their long conference at 5:15 p.m. (4:15 a.m. EST) at the Great Hall Of The People in the center of Peking. Since Nixon's arrival four days ago, the two world leaders have been together for more than 24 hours—More than half of the time devoted to official talks.

Nixon and Chou were believed to be building upon an agreement already reached to expand and continue Chinese-American contacts as the first thaw in the frozen relationship between the two powers.

A formal communique is expected to be issued at the conclusion of the Nixon-Chou talks. The two are scheduled for another meeting Friday, followed by a formal banquet by Nixon for his hosts in response to one for him and Mrs. Nixon Monday night.

Nixon's first public comment on his visit came when he halted his tour of the Great Wall to chat with American newsmen accompanying him.

Standing in winter sunshine on the longest wall ever erected by mankind, he observed: "We do not want walls of any kind."

The President said his talks with Chou were "very interesting" and prompted Secretary of State William P. Rogers to agree they are "going well."

Chinese Vice Premier Li Hsien-nien, who accompanied Nixon and his wife to the Wall on the trip over roads carefully cleared of all ice and snow after a two-inch snowfall, commented after the President's remarks were translated: "Mr. President has given a very good speech."

The trip outisde Peking was the President's first crack at daytime sightseeing.

Hundreds, perhaps thousands, of Chinese laborers had worked through the night to clear away fresh snow with shovels and bamboo brooms for Nixon's trip to the wall.

Bundled up in a fur-collared suburban coat, Nixon wore rubber ribbed shoes for climbing the wall. But after a long and bumpy ride in a limousine flying the Stars and Stripes from its fenders, he decided against it.

Instead, he said with a laugh, "I order all the press to climb to the top and give me a report."

After resting in a tea house with the 75 people who accompanied them, the Nixons drove to the Ming tombs, where they paused in awe at gigantic marble camels, elephants and lions which lined the road.

Three plump, rosy-cheeked little girls in red, pink and blue jackets gave a rope-jumping demonstration for the Nixons. Their pigtails each were tied with a brightly colored bow.

"It's worth coming here," the President said.

Would he recommend that Americans apply for Chinese visas so they could?

"I would not comment on that until after the meetings."

But, he added, "I hope one of the developments ... is that the American people will come here and the Chinese people will go to the United States."

A broad exchange of students, scholars and newsmen, it was learned Wednesday by UPI diplomatic reporter Stewart Hensley has been agreed upon during the Nixon-Chou talks.

Nixon seemed pleased with what he had achieved in his talks with Chou and his hour-long meeting Monday with Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung, the father figure of 800 million Chinese.

Great Wall of China Called 'Unbelievable'

PEKING (AP) — "It's unbelievable," President Nixon said today when he looked down the Great Wall of China, and the President was right.

Built 2,200 years ago, 15 to 30 feet high, 18 feet wide at the top, it would reach from New York almost to Denver if its meanderings across Northern China were stretched out across the United States.

Although it dwarfs anything remaining from the ancient world, the astonishing engineering feat failed in its original purpose. It could not keep the barbarian invaders out.

The wall actually once was four separate walls, built by the rulers of four contending states in the waning days of the Chou dynasty when North China was cut up among squabbling feudal rulers.

When Chin Shih Huang Ti, then Prince Cheng in the state of Chin, became emperor in 221 B.C., he soon brought three contending miner vassal states to heel and linked them together.

The emperor decided to connect all the walls with his own, and the result was called Chang Cheng, meaning Long Wall. It took 18 years to build. Slave laborers and prisoners did the work and died en masse in the effort. Their remains were buried beneath the wall's foundations.

Succeeding dynasties added to the wall and kept it in repair or modified according to their needs. The rulers felt safe behind the barrier atop which soldiers could march 10 abreast. It extended all the way from the Yellow Sea, over rugged hills and mountains to the Gobi Desert without a single break.

But the wall proved no barrier to the Golden Horde of Genghis Khan, whose wild Mongol and Tartar horsemen swarmed over the wall, overran North China and captured Peking.

Genghis Khan's grandson, Kublai Khan, completed the conquest, established the Yuan Dynasty and ruled over the greatest land mass ever dominated by one man.

The Ming Dynasty succeeded the Mongol and remained in power from 1368 until 1644. Then the Manchus of the north breached the wall by treachery. Their troops had crossed with permission, ostensibly to help the Mings contend with the threat of other enemies, but once inside the wall. They would not leave. Instead, they wheeled south for conquest and established the last of the Chinese imperial dynasties, the Chings.

Pat Nixon donned a hat as a concession to North China's winter weather today but appeared rested and jaunty when she toured the Great Wall with her husband.

"I thought it was even more spectacular than I had read about," Mrs. Nixon said after she viewed the ancient barrier near Peking. "It's so graceful ... winding up the mountain like a dragon's back."

She said she would like to "play hookey" from her duties as First Lady to take in more of the ancient wonders of the world.

It was the first time Mrs. Nixon and the President had gone sightseeing together since they came to China. The President has been tied up in conferences with China's rulers.

Nixon said his wife had given him a rundown of her earlier tours of Peking when they were together in the evening.

Mrs. Nixon wore a red wool fur-lined coat and a sable scarf, with a matching sable beret. In her earlier outings she wore no hat, despite the fact that she was out during a snowstorm Wednesday.

$30,000 in Antiques Stolen From Paltz Stone Houses

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ

Antiques and historical relics valued at $30,000 were stolen from two of the stone houses on New Paltz' famed Huguenot Street last Feb. 16, The Freeman has learned.

The Huguenot Historical Society, which administers the houses, has offered a $500 reward for the return of the items.

Kenneth Hasbrouck, head of the society, placed the $30,000 estimate on the worth of the stolen antiques, but emphasized the estimate was only of their worth as antiques. Their value as historical relics, as mementos of New Paltz' remarkable past, can't be calculated.

As the Historical Society put it, in a statement released on the matter, "Unfortunately, the historic value of many of these cherished heirlooms of the New Paltz families is far in excess of their intrinsic worth."

The items were stolen from the Jean Hasbrouck Memorial House, and the LeFevre House during the night of a fire at the Veterans of Foreign Wars home in New Paltz. Village of New Paltz Police Chief James Walrath would make no connection between the fire and the robbery, but conceded, "anything is possible."

Hasbrouck speculated that the robbery had been planned for some time prior to the acutal event, and the fire was the cover the thieves were waiting for.

Hasbrouck theorizes the robbery was carried out by automobile. As support for his theory of advanced planning of the robbery, Hasbrouck revealed that two pieces of plywood were removed from a restoration project the Monday before the robbery, and turned up at the robbery scene. The plywood was used to see the car or cars used in the robbery didn-t get bogged down in soft spots or on ice.

Special

The news of the robbery was withheld until today on the advice of Village Police Chief James Walrath. Walrath told The Freeman the news was withheld to try to deceive the robbers, possibly causing them to stay in the area thinking they were safe.

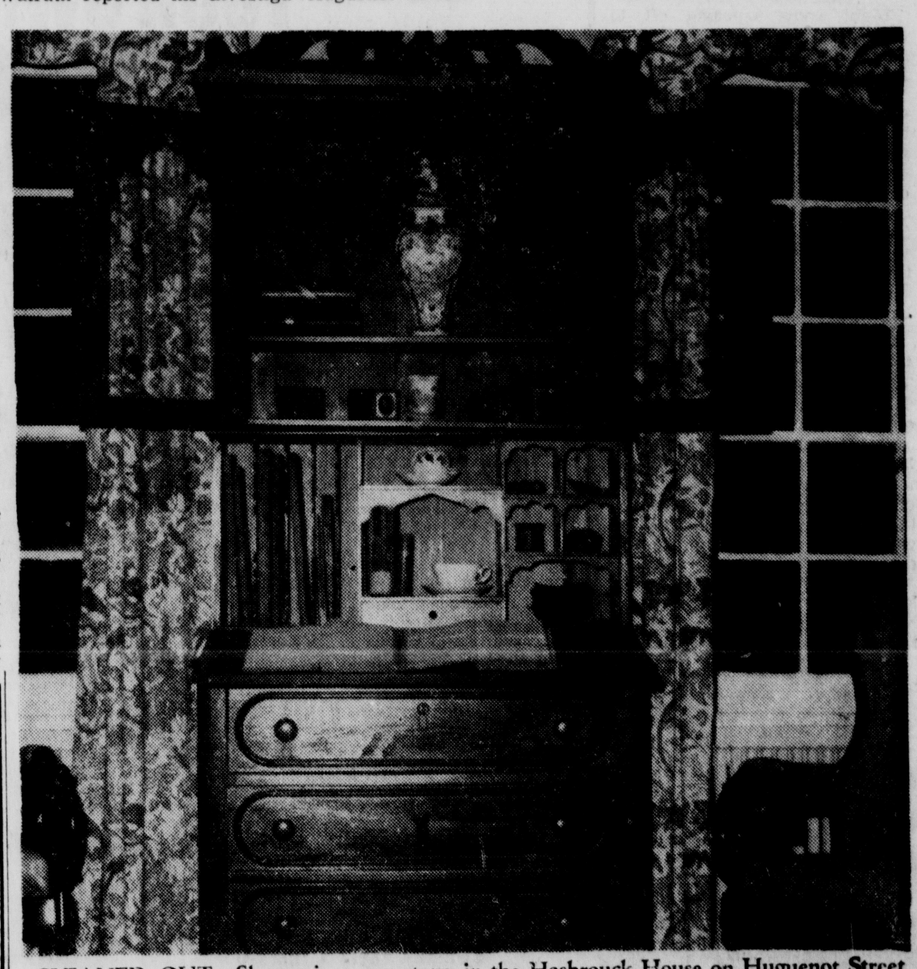

It didn't work, apparently. Walrath reported his investigation was continuing, but no leads had been uncovered. State Police BCI Investigator David Wachtel said his organization is probing the thefts. Both agencies have alerted local antique dealers and second hand shops.

Huguenot Street and its stone houses are a National Historic Site. Hasbrouck said he was in the process of drafting correspondence to Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-28), and to state legislators, concerning the robbery.

The police on duty at the time of the robbery had been called to the scene of the VFW fire, on busy Route 208, to direct traffic. The robbers had a free hand on Huguenot Street.

Among the many items missing from the Hasbrouck House were: a silver snffbox from the 17th century, with DuBois family initials and coat of arms; an English earthenware bowl which had belonged to Hugo Freer; and a 1673 book of devotions, calf bound, with the names of Jean Hasbrouck and Elizabeth Bevier Hasbrouck written in it.

Among the many items missing from the LeFevre House are: two oil paintings in the style of Ammi Phillips; two small 19th century portraits; a large white ironstone tureen with ladle; and a set of approximately 75 pieces of late 19th century blue and white dishes.

CLEANED OUT—Shown is a secretary in the Hasbrouck House on Huguenot Street in New Paltz. Thieves stole all the items of value on the secretary's shelves, leaving only the ledgers. The large vase on the top shelf is valued at $150.

600 Woodstockers Cold To Snowmobile Routes

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

WOODSTOCK

Six hundred people signed a petition strongly opposing it. Three organized groups went on record that they would take any and all legal steps necessary to stop it. And the implicit but subtly veiled threat was made by an attorney for one of the groups that a violation of the Code of Ethics would be invoked against two Town Board members if they did not refrain from voting on the issue.

Basically, the issue involved is, a little machine called the snowmobile. And to argue pros and cons of allowing these mechanized toboggans to operate on designated town roads, Woodstockers filled Town Hall to standing room only capacity Wednesday night for a public hearing on the proposed passage of such a local law.

Favoring the law, which would allow snowmobile use on Mink Hollow and Silver Hollow Roads (access roads to woodland trails) were members of the Beaverkill Snowmobile Club, which claims 25 members, and which had petitioned the board for the law.

Outnumbered physically and verbally at the hearing, they were accused of putting an "enjoyable playground" for their own use above the "right of property owner to peace and privacy."

The opposition battery began with the presentation of a petition signed by 600 people denouncing passage of what could become Snowmobile Local Law No. 1. The board acknowledge receipt of the petition, but supervisor Verner May noted it would be meticulously checked for authenticity of signatures.

But the most telling points against the law were probably made by the Silver Hollow Environmental Defense Group, whose 30-odd members threatened legal steps to stop snowmobile use in their area. And by another group of Mink Hollow residents who threatened the same.

And by the Ad Hoc Committee of Concerned Citizens of Woodstock, who presented their own proposed law (amending the regulations as written by the board).

The evening's argumentation took still another turn when, on two occasions, supervisor May refused to allow two speakers to pursue the line that two board members (Councilman John Gardner and Town Justice Rudolf Baumgarten) were avid owners of snowmobiles; could hardly be expected to judge the facts.

May's insistence that both "sit down" and forget such tactics did not deter attorney Aaron Klein, who represents a group of Silver Hollow residents. Klein not only insisted that "dangerous and hazardous" conditions would be created on "narrow and already hardly passable" Silver Hollow road under the proposed law, but that thousands of non-Woodstockers would pour into town to use the roads opened to snowmobiling, creating law enforcement and speed regulation problems for the local police force.

Then Klein dropped his biggest bomb; insisted any discussion of Gardner and Baumgarten's personal interest in snowmobiling were "legal arguments" in regard to their qualifications to vote on the matter. They were governed by a Code of Ethics, he said, that suggests where an office holder has personal, private or pecuniary interest in the outcome of legislation, he must abjure acting in his capacity on that issue. Hinted Klein: if they did not abstain, his clients could invoke against them a violation of the Code of Ethics.

The board made no decision on the snowmobile law at meeting's end, and May assured the audience that board members "have not made up their minds," and will not do so until much further study.

Still, one of the more poignant exchanges of the evening came when a snowmobile club member suggested that radios, too, were once opposed for their noise, but have long since been accepted.

To which a gentleman who had earlier argued that his sleep is often disturbed by snowmobiles in the early morning hours responded, "God forbid that snowmobiles should proliferate like radios!"

Tuition, Room Rent Hike for State Undergraduates

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The cost of an education at the State University of New York will go up at least $200 a year for the majority of undergraduates beginning this summer.

SUNY's Board of Trustees Wednesday announced a tuition and room rent hike that will cost up to $350 a year more for juniors and seniors whose family taxable income is over $12,000. For the few students on the "poverty level," there will be no tuition hike — but all students will pay $100 more for room rent.

For the bulk of freshmen and sophomores whose family income is above $4,000 a year, the hike will mean $100 more for tuition and $100 more for room rent. For juniors and seniors, it will mean $150 more for tution if the family income is between $4,000 and $12,000, and $250 more above that level, with the same rent increase.

SUNY Chancellor Ernest L. Boyer said the tuition hike, which effects all 148,000 students in the university system, was essential "to protect the quality of programs and services in critical areas and to enable enrollment of additional freshmen students."

Basic tuition for freshmen and sophomores will rise from $550 to $650 a year. For juniors and seniors, it will increase from $550 to $800 a year. The increase will be even greater for out-of-state undergraduates. At graduate levels, tuition will go up about $400 a year.

The tuition and rent hikes were accompanied by adjustments in student financial assistance programs to offset or eliminate the impact of the increase on low and middle income families.

In a related move, the trustees said students who want private telephones in their rooms would have to pay for them. Originally, dormitories were constructed with telephones in every room, and the cost of the line was figured into overall student fees.

Boyer said the tuition hike will provide between $18 million and $20 million more a year in operating funds for the system in the coming year.

The funds will be used to:

—Increase next year's freshman class by an additional 1,000 students. Originally, an increase of 4,600 students was planned, but this will permit more, Boyer said.

—Provide more funds for the upstate and downstate medical centers, whose budgets are frozen despite skyrocketting hospital costs.

—Provide needed funds for disadvantaged students.

—Permit the adminission of a freshman class at the new Stony Brook Health Sciences Center.

—Give more funds to library services. These funds were cut in half by the present budget cutback.

—Permit the summer session at SUNY campuses to be maintained at full level.

Boyer said he had "no commitment" from the legislature that SUNY would be allowed to use the extra funds for additional students and program costs. He added, however, that legislative leaders were "sympathetic with what we're trying to do."

The tuition hike marked the first time SUNY instituted a difference in the amount paid by freshmen and sophomores from juniors and seniors.

"It is the feeling of the Board of Trustees that the two - year college program is becoming part of the assumed educational program," Boyer said. "In addition, it costs more to educate a student in the upper division, and also the education he receives is for more social and economic benefit."

—If the taxable family income is over $20,000, the student is paying the maximum of $550 now and will pay the new maximum of $800.

Jobless Rate High

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — More than 530,000 New Yorkers were unemployed last month as the jobless rate soared to its highest point in nine years and affected all areas of the state, reports the state Labor Department.

The unemployment rate was 6.5 per cent, up from 6.1 per cent in December and 5.7 per cent in January 1971. The 6.5 per cent rate was the highest since the 6.9 per cent level recorded in January 1963.

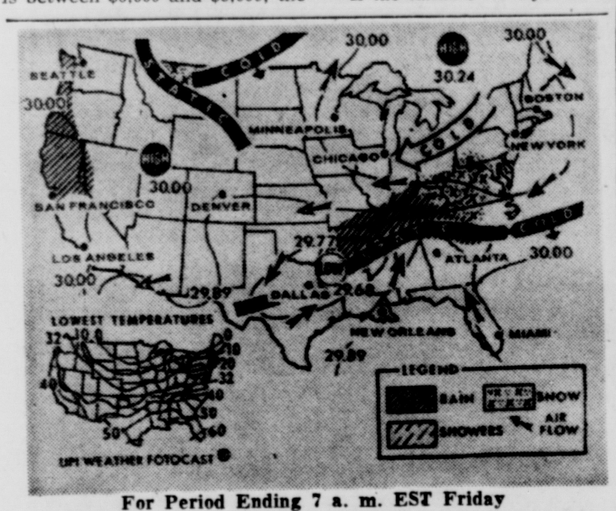

The Utica area was the hardest hit, with one of every 10 workers unemployed. This also was believed to be the highest rate for any one area since 1963.

Here are the unemployment rates by areas as reported by the department:

Albany-Schenectady-Troy, 5.4 per cent, up from 4.6 per cent in December; Binghamton, 5.6 up from 5.4; Buffalo, 8.8 up from 8.4; Elmira, 8 up from 7.1; Poughkeepsie, 4.4 up from 3.4; Syracuse, 5.6 up from 5.5; Utica, 9.8 up from 9.6; Greater Rochester, 4.5 up from 3.9.

Also, New York City, 5.7 up from 5.5; Nassau County, 6.5 up from 5.9; Suffolk County, 8.2 up from 7.6; Westchester County, 5.4 up from 4.9, and Rockland County, 5.6 up from 4.8.

A spokesman for the department blamed the high number of jobless on the slowing of the construction industry by inclement weather and on the layoff of Christmas employes.

Plans Revealed at Dinner

United Way Slates Survey

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — The Ulster County United Way, in an attempt to take off from its "$340,000 fund raising plateau" of the past three years, will survey the community first this year in attempt to determine available resources before setting a goal for the 1973 campaign.

Glenn Sutherland, president-elect of the United Way for 1972, outlined plans for what amounts to a reversal of fund-raising policy, at the 18th annual dinner meeting of the organization Wednesday night at the Gov. Clinton Hotel. Previously, the United Way, formerly the Community Chest, had set goals and then gone to the community in an attempt to reach them. Goals were established from budgetory requests from member United Way Agencies, which now number 15.

"We have to find out what support the community will give United Way," Sutherland said last night. "We're not sure what is available."

In 1971, the United Way set a goal of $468,000 but due to a number of factors — a general downturn in the economy, the loss of its executive director in August and a subsequent late start on the campaign — only $340,000 was realized. The amount raised compares favorably with that raised in 1970 ($349,000) and the amount raised in 1969 ($345,000) but was still far short of what United Way Agencies felt they needed to provide what they thought was adequate service to their clients.

Anthony Triulzi, the outgoing president of United Way, noted that "good fortune has not seemed to smile openly" on the organization, but he saw "strength and vitality" in the future of United Way. He predicted a campaign goal "approaching $400,000" in 1972, adding, "people want to work and will work for United Way." He was presented a plaque in appreciation for his services by Sutherland.

Triulzi, in turn, presented a plaque to Stanley Petro Jr., campaign chairman last year. Petro presented "happy campaigner" tie clips to John R. Warren, who served as acting executive director from August to December and to Al Brocco. Brocco is this year's campaign chairman.

Wilbur Peters, chairman of the Nominating Committee, presented the names of Robert Brown, Dr. Herbert Derman, Ronald Every (this year's treasurer), Francis Kugelman, his own name, Sutherland and Triluzi for their second three-year terms to the board of directors in additon to Richard Mehlenbacker, Charles Diamond, Miss Marion Tongue and Bruce Davis as new directors. All were unanimously approved.

Sutherland said the United Way's priority item would be the hiring of a new executive director. He added that they expected to fill that vacancy by the end of March. Thomas Reynolds is head of the Selection Committee.

Archa O. Knowlton, director of Media Services for General Foods Corp., headquarters in White Plains, was the guest speaker. Knowlton also headed the United Way National Media organization last year and outlined that group's efforts in securing contributory advertising from the nation's, television and radio, stations and newspapers and magazines. Total time and space contributed was valued at $37,000,000, Knowlton said, leading to national fund raising of $865,200,000, an all-time record.

He told of the problems in coordinating a five-minute broadcast for United Way last Sept. 10 on all three major television netwaorks. United Way had wanted President Nixon to do the Broadcast, the President couldn't, but Mrs. Nixon did. "Mrs. Nixon came through beautifully," Knowlton said.

He then showed the film which featured Mrs. Patricia Nixon, wife of the President, in an address for United Way in 1969 and country singer Loretta Lynn, rendering "If you don't do it, it won't get done." The five minute color film showed one aspect of United Way, an agency helping a child with impaired hearing.

Knowlton addressed his remarks to the need for individual concern for less fortunate other people . . . "helping the individual through an inner conviction . . . is uniquely American," he said.

"The role played by the individual must now be larger than ever to solve the social challenges we face," he said. "The most satisfying of all human endeavors is people helping other people," he concluded.

Triulzi, in his closing remarks, said, "Many of us doing a little produces a lot more than a few of us doing a lot."

County, City Democrats . . . Open Warfare

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — The barely concealed animosity between the county and city committees of the Democratic Party broke out into open warfare today with the removal of three city designees from the county executive committee by the County Chairman James T. McCardle.

McCardle has rejected three of eight persons elected by the city committee: Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo, Mrs. Kathleen Quick and Mrs. Florence Klein. Gallo is the number two man in city government; Mrs. Quick is the wife of Alderman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward), chairman of the Common Council's top committee, Laws and Rules, and Mrs. Klein is the wife of former County Chairman Aaron E. Klein who now serves as city corporation counsel.

McCardle replaced those three with John Hogan, husband of Mrs. Rose Hogan, deputy city clerk and vice chairman of the Democratic County Committee, Mrs. Agnes Loughran, a city committeewoman long active in the party and Gerard Prosser, chairman of the Kingston Planning Board.

McCardle notified City Chairman Lawrence E. Woerner by letter on Nov. 23, 1971, to give him the names of eight persons "either appointed or elected" from the city to serve on the County Executive Committee.

Woerner convened the city committee on Jan. 27 and recommended Joseph Stenson, vice chairman of the city committee, Mrs. Quick, secretary, Gallo, Vincent Berardi, Larry Kithcart, Paul Mills, Eugene Perry and Mrs. Klein. The slate was unanimously approved by the city committee.

McCardle, who was in attendance at that meeting and voiced no opposition to the slate, then notified Woerner by letter on Feb. 18 that he would not appoint Gallo, Mrs. Quick or Mrs. Klein to the County Executive Committee. Previous to that, on Feb. 14, Woerner said McCardle told him he did not want Mrs. Klein on the Executive Committee because her husband, Aaron, had taken part in the state committeemen's contest (between Maurice Hinchey of Saugerties and Thomas Lyle of Kingston, a contest won by Hinchey), and that McCardle told him he felt Gallo and Mrs. Quick did not want to work with him.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig, who publicly has remained aloof from the city-county Democratic squabbles, today commended the city committee for its selection of his running mate, Gallo. "Bob is serving his third term as alderman-at-large and enjoys the respect and support of a large majority of the people of the city of Kingston," Koenig said today. "Bob has proven a distinct asset here in city government and I feel that he will be more than qualified, most capable and a definite asset to the County Executive Committee and I commend the city committee in their selection of Bob as a member of the County Executive Committee."

The city committee will meet again tonight to review the situation involving the County Executive Committee.

New Snowfall Hampers Cleanup Operations

KINGSTON — Another four inches of snow fell overnight in Ulster County, further hampering snow removal operations and forcing cancellation of classes at some schools.

The overnight precipitation came hard on the heels of the weekend's 16-inch storm and laid to rest any lingering hopes that Spring is just around the corner.

Two separate low pressure centers that converged on the Northeast Wednesday night scattered snow, ice and rain from the Carolinas to the Great Lakes and New England.

Heavy snow warnings were issued for Northern Maine, and travelers warnings were posted for the rest of New England and eastern New York.

Streets and highways throughout Ulster County were hazardous throughout the night, but conditions had improved by midmorning.

Slick and slippery roads forced several school closings in Ulster County, including Rondout Valley, New Paltz, Wallkill and Pine Bush Central Schools. The New Paltz Campus School was also closed, as was St. Peter's School in Rosendale. Rhinebeck Central School opened two hours later than usual today.

The latest snowfall hampered already beleaguered employes of the Department of Public Works and, according to Superintendent Charles Cole, "set us back considerably." Cole said that his crews planned to devote Wednesday night to removing piles of snow from the Wall Street area, but had to concentrate on plowing the freshly fallen snow instead. Cole said church and parking areas will be cleaned today or Friday, and that the Downtown Broadway section will be the last area cleared of snow.

No Date Set In Police Trial

ELLENVILLE — No date has been set yet for departmental trials for four Ellenville policemen, but Chief William Trapnell said Thursday he would meet with the village attorney within the next day or so to arrange a date.

The four suspended policemen are Detective Charles B. Freer of Napanoch, charged with endangering the welfare of a minor, Patrolmen Ronald K. Krom and Carl B. Mayer, both of Ellenville, who were recently cleared of third degree rape charges, and Patrolman Anthony R. Yerkes, who has been suspended but who has not had charges filed against him. A charge of sale of a dangerous drug in the second degree against Krom also was dismissed, according to Trapnell.

Freer, Krom, and Mayer all were arrested after being accused by 16-year-old Debra Lee Decker of Ellenville. Freer of allegedly taking nude photographs of the girl. The charges of third degree rape placed against Krom and Mayer were withdrawn despite testimony from State Police BCI investigators that both patrolmen had admitted having sexual relations with Miss Decker. Acting Village Justice Joseph Friedman ruled that evidence was not "legally sufficient" to warrant holding them for grand jury action.

Freer, who appeared at his original arraignment without an attorney, pleaded guilty to the morals charge and submitted a verbal resignation from the police department. He later engaged an attorney, withdrew his guilty plea and withdrew his resignaton as the department's only detective. Several former Ellenville policemen have been rehired to take up the slack in the duty roster caused by the suspension of the four men.

When asked if he expected the investigation to involve other members of the department, Trapnell replied: "I certainly hope not."

Parliamentary Scrambling Blocks Quick Busing Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Parliamentary scrambling has blocked the quick action hoped for by sponsors of a compromise restricting busing of school children to achieve integration.

Southern Democrats and some Republicans favoring stronger legislation against busing kept the Senate from voting Wednesday on the compromise pushed by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

The Senate has agreed to end the debate next Wednesday.

The antibusing provisions are being offered as amendments to a combined $23-billion higher-education and $1.5-billion school-desegregation measure.

Mansfield and Scott offered their plan in the hope that it would rally a majority of the Senate and perhaps defuse some of the controversy over busing.

It would permit continuation of some busing to carry out school-desegregation plans, especially where these are ordered to end state-imposed racial segregation.

Liberals are expected to support the proposal to head off more-restrictive riders.

The Scott-Mansfield amendment would:

—Bar use of federal funds to carry out a racial-desegregation plan except on the written request of local school officials.

—Prohibit courts or federal officials from ordering local officials to make such a request.

—Bar use of federal funds for busing "when the time or distance of travel is so great as to risk the health of the children or significantly impinge on the educational process."

—Prohibit federal officials from inducing local school officials to use state or local funds for a busing-desegregation program unless constitutionally required.

—Bar federal officials from inducing local school officials to use busing where pupils will be moved to schools substantially inferior to those to which they would otherwise be assigned.

—And, provide that any court order requiring that two or more school districts be consolidated or that pupils be bused from one district to another cannot take effect until all appeals have been exhausted. This provision would be in effect through June 30, 1973.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., the Republican whip, is sponsoring a stronger antibusing amendment on which he tried Wednesday to have a vote set. But he was out-maneuvered by Scott and Mansfield.

His amendment would strip from federal courts the power to issue orders requiring busing on the basis of race.

Social Security Hike Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 20-per-cent hike in Social Security benefits is off to a strong start in the election-year Congress.

The legislation, introduced in a surprise move Wednesday by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., would also reduce slightly this year the payroll-tax increase already planned—but would make up for it next year with a stiff hike on higher incomes.

Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, asked the Senate Finance Committee to incorporate his bill in the Social Security-welfare legislation it is considering. The 20-per-cent hike would substitute for a 5 per cent increase the House approved before sending the bill to the Senate.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate committee said his panel also will look at a proposal to insure that all Social Security beneficiaries are lifted above the poverty level.

There appears little doubt the Senate will increase the 5-per-cent raise now pending, probably at least to Mills' 20-per-cent figure.

When Mills unexpectedly introduced his proposal, Social Security hikes were being planned in the Senate and reports were circulating that the Nixon administration was preparing to recommend a substantial increase.

Mills, a contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, said he decided to sponsor an increase after accepting a finding by the Social Security Advisory Council that the system was adequately funded for larger benefits.

The measure, involving about $8 billion in benefits above present levels, would increase the average benefit from $133 to $162 a month for a retired worker, $222 to $269 for a couple, and $114 to $153 for a widow, Mills said.

The tax consequences would vary, principally for those in higher earning brackets.

No Comment

Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana, a Democratic presidential primary candidate, said he is withholding comment on the legal aspects of the Supreme Court decision ruling that Indiana state authorities have the right to conduct a recount in his 1970 reelection. Richard Roudebush, who lost by 4,200 votes, demanded the recount. Sen. Hartke's attorneys are reviewing the decision of the court. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Former Alabama Guard Officer Charged for Soliciting Funds

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) —Maj. Gen. G. Reid Doster, former commander of the Alabama Air National Guard, and three of his officers were charged by a federal grand jury Wednesday with soliciting political campaign funds from their soldiers.

A U.S. District Court official said the warrants probably would be issued and bond set at $1,000 in each case. He said the defendants would be expected to appear "within the next couple of days" to be processed and make the bonds.

Cols. James E. Hardwick and Henry Fillingim Jr. and Lt. Col. Alfred B. Gurley were indicted along with Doster for violating the Hatch Act, which prohibits the solicitation of campaign contributions from government employes.

The four are expected to be arraigned April 7 and trials could begin as early as mid-June. The maximum penalty on conviction is five years in prison, a $10,000 fine, or both.

Five other Ar Guard officers were charged as co-conspirators by the grand jury, but were not indicted.

They were Cols. Lawrence A. Doyle, William P. Baker, Willie L. Whitman Jr., Edward D. Gilmer and Maj. Lonnie Slauson Jr.

The charges center around the 1970 campaign. The jury charged that money solicited by Doster and the other three were turned over to four candidates.

The jury said Doster gave then Gov. Albert P. Brewer $1,000 for his re-election campaign against Wallace. It said Doster gave $1,700 to Taylor Hardin, now Wallace's state finance director, for use in Wallace's campaign.

Doster also was accused of giving $400 to former state Sen. Hugh Morrow III who ran unsuccessfully for lieutenant governor, and $100 to former state Sen. Leland Childs of Birmingham, who failed in his bid for re-election.

The solicitations allegedly began March 1, 1970, and took place at Dannelly Air Guard base here and Sumpter Smith Guard base in Birmingham.

Doster was commander of the Air Guard before he was demoted in 1971 by Maj. Gen. Charles Rollo, a Wallace appointee. He and eight other guard officers were fired from their technician jobs, but their dismissals were reduced to suspensions recently by the U.S. Civil Service Commission.

Report Clifford Irving Writing 'Inside' Book

NEW YORK (AP) — Author Clifford Irving's lawyer has met with federal prosecutors amid reports that Irving is writing a book on the "inside story" of his disputed Howard Hughes "autobiography."

Lawyer Maurice Nessen met for the first time Wednesday with U.S. Atty. Whitney North Seymour Jr., leading to speculation that negotiations on some agreement between Irving and the government were near completion.

Meanwhile, the New York Daily News reported today it had learned that Irving and his researcher, Richard Suskind, were writing the new book and that Irving's wife, Edith, was doing the illustrations.

The newspaper said they were negotiating with publishers for a sizable advance, apparently to cover legal expenses and other costs arising from the government investigation.

The Irvings were granted another delay in their appearances before a federal grand jury investigating possible mail fraud in the preparation of the Hughes book. They are now not expected to appear before next week.

The Swiss government is seeking to extradite Mrs. Irving, a Swiss citizen, to face fraud and embezzlement charges stemming from the deposit in Swiss banks of $650,000 that McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. intended as payment for Hughes' asserted cooperation in the book.

Guerrillas Ambush Vehicle

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Arab guerrillas ambushed a civilian vehicle near the Lebanese border Wednesday night and killed its two civilian occupants —a man and his wife—with bazookas, a military spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the guerrillas apparently laid nails on the road to stop the vehicle and then blasted it.

"A number of vehicles coming from both directions sustained flat tires from nails scattered ... along the road at the site of the incident," the spokesman said.

He said the guerrillas infiltrated Israel from Lebanon.

The victims were a married couple driving from the Mediterranean resort of Nahariyya

Fish, Javits to Tour Facilities

WASHINGTON, D.C. Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., will join Senator Jacob K. Javits and a special Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Action Team on an inspection tour of Willowbrook, Letchworth and other New York State facilities for the mentally retarded on Feb. 28 and 29, it was announced today.

"I have been profoundly concerned and shocked by the conditions recently depicted at the Willowbrook State School," Congressman Fish said, "and welcome this opportunity to join Senator Javits and the special HEW Action Team in a bid to find what help can be given from the Federal level."

According to Congressman Fish, the arrangements for Federal intervention came when Governor Rockefeller and Dr. Alan Miller, commissioner of the New York State Department of Hygiene, sought his help in getting federal assistance in helping the State improve conditions at the State's facilities for the mentally retarded.

The conditions at the Willowbrook State School on Staten Island were revealed to the nation when pictures of patient treatment were released.

"Senator Javits has informed me that he has received assurances from Secretary Elliot T. Richardson that the full resources of HEW will be made available for assistance in this vital area," Congressman Fish said. "I think the Senator deserves great praise for his work in organizing this effort."

The Rifton group was led by Glynn Swinger, principal and Mrs. Ruby Moody, social studies teacher.

Assemblyman Bell said: "It is always a great pleasure to meet with young people. I certainly hope as many students as possible will make the trip to Albany to observe the state government in operation during the general session of the Legislature."

Paltz Prof Has Book Published

NEW PALTZ

An Anthology of Indian Literature, the second book of Dr. John B. Alphonso-Karkala, has been published by Penguin Books, in the U.S., Canada, England, and Australia.

The anthology is the result of a number of scholarly experiments in which Karkala, a professor of Literature at the State University College at New Paltz, participated as a consultant with the UNESCO in Paris.

The book represents India's long and continuous tradition and contains selections from the Vedic, Epic, Buddhist, Classical, Medieval, and Modern periods in the literary history of the Indian Peninsula.

As the Indian literary tradition has long influenced authors of the western world, the anthology provides a valuable background for gaining greater understanding of western authors, as well as illustrating the extent and scope of the Indian classics in the context of world literature.

Karkala has been a professor of literature at New Paltz since 1964.

Peking Dividend

The first fallout from President Nixon's visit to Peking comes, not from the Chinese capital, but from Moscow. On the same day that the wires brought news of the first stopover at Hawaii, the Washington datelines reported new talks on Soviet Lend-Lease debts of 1945 and headlined ABM Compromise with Soviet Foreseen in May.

Either of these developments would have been hailed happily on any ordinary news day. On the first day the President had left continental United States they were doubly welcome. Lend-Lease had been a long-standing question, and ABM the subject of continuing negotiations, nonetheless the dual announcement was a quick dividend on the possible rapprochement between Washington and Peking, the early dividend on Nixon diplomacy.

The Lend-Lease debt is for goods and equipment shipped to Russia during World War II and which were usable at the end of the war. The United States originally asked $2.6 billion, but reduced this to $800 million by the time talks broke down in 1952. The most the Russians ever offered was $300 million, with concessions on tariffs and credits. They also paid $222 million for goods supplied after the war. The Lend-Lease settlement now has been revived as part of a long-term trade agreement.

The Strategic Arms Talks will resume March 28 in Helsinki. The first phase is expected to end in May with a treaty allowing both the United States and the Soviet Union to deploy 150 and 200 defensive missiles anywhere on their territories. President Nixon's recent foreign policy message to Congress hinted at this agreement, when he disclosed that the main elements of the initial SALT accord would include a limit on antiballistic missiles and an interim agreement on some kinds of offensive missiles.

With these possible accomplishments, Mr. Nixon has something tangible to discuss with the Chinese leaders in Peking, when broad foreign policy matters are on the table.

Wage Inequity

Discrimination in pay on account of sex is on the way out. The United States Department of Labor order, ending discrimination in hiring and promotion practices of all companies having government contracts of $50,000 or more, goes into effect April 3. Four conferences around the country are being held to spell out corporate obligations. The first, in Chicago, drew 600 attendance. The others will be held in New York, Atlanta and San Francisco.

Congress is considering statutes that would permit the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to sue in federal court to stop job discrimination—the first step in enforcement of a hitherto toothless law.

The need for such enforcement was underscored in a revised "Fact Sheet in the Earning Gap," issued by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor. It shows the growing disparity in wages. Median earnings for women in 1970, for instance, were 59.4 per cent of men's. Median full time year round earnings for women were $5,323, for men $8,966. Also, 12 per cent of the women earned less than $3,000 compared to 5 per cent of the men; and 7 per cent of women earned more than $10,000 compared to 40 per cent or male workers.

These discrepancies have grown over the years. New laws and new orders will slowly correct them. It will take a lot of adjusting, but discrimination is and should be on the way out.

ARIZONA SPLITS DELEGATION—The Arizona delegation to the Democratic National Convention is almost as badly split as the number of aspirants. The first state to pick its delegates named nine for Muskie, six for Lindsay, five for McGovern and five uncommitted, including represenatives of labor, and the state's women's and black caucuses. At this rate, the Muskie front-runner post will not guarantee the Maine senator an early ballot nomination.

3-YEAR BS DEGREE—Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., will admit 1,100 students this fall, of whom 220 will be given special status, enabling them to receive a bachelor's degree in three years. They will be the forerunners of a majority who will be able to graduate in three years. The university will thus recognize that much acadamic work now is not absolutely essential.

Viet 'Food for Peace' Debacle

WASHINGTON — When America was shipping $18 million worth of food a year to feed hungry Vietnamese, it had no idea the bounty would wind up in the hands of black marketeers or in the stomachs of pigs.

But official Saigon corruption, along with an incredible misjudgment of the Vietnamese palate, combined to accomplish exactly that.

The tragic result is that the program for feeding three million children, disabled veterans, and old people was wrecked.

The story of the "Food for Peace" debacle in Vietnam is told in classified documents. The subject also was raised in the cable traffic between Secretary of State William Rogers and Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, our testy, talented man in Saigon.

Last fall, Bunker paused in his political go-between work with the Saigon government to wire Rogers about what was happening to the precooked wheat — known as "bulgar" — which had been sent by the thousands of tons to feed hungry Vietnamese.

"Bulgar has been controversial," began Bunker diplomatically. "Many recipients (have) little or no knowledge of its food value or method of preparation." Then Bunker delicately reported the costly grain has become "identified as livestock feed."

Bunker's own secret files put it more bluntly. His aides earlier had reported that, "although issued for human consumption, (bulgar) is used almost exclusively for pig feed and is in great demand for this purpose. corn meal is also used as chicken feed."

Rogers instructed the Embassy in Saigon that since bulgar has "repeatedly been cited for abusive end usage (and) is not acceptable to Vietnam taste," further shipments should cease.

The bulgar fiasco, of course, is only a symptom of the failure of the Food for Peace effort in Vietnam. Excerpts from other memos to Bunker and his top aides give a broader, darker picture.

"Few (U.S.) surplus commodities are pleasing to the Vietnamese palate," says one confidential memo. "This, in large part, explains why . . . commodities are sold for piasters to buy rice rather than consumed by the recipients as planned by the U.S. Congress."

The bootlegging is so brazen, another State Department expert reports, that the needy often are given the food from a U.S. truck and, on the spot, turn around and sell it to a black marketeer for rice or cash.

The corruption was sufficiently bad in 10 provinces, reports a classified survey, that they were cut off completely from Food for Peace aid. Yet, elsewhere, a U. S. field official reported the peasants were literally eating the bark off trees and were near starvation."

In one such starving area, disabled Vietnamese veterans "physically forced themselves into the province warehouse and stole . . . commodities." American advisers who tried to stop them were "threatened with bodily harm."

When the advisers sought to truck out the food, the hostile veterans threatened 'reprisals." As a result, the Americans called in the U.S. Army, and "the Americal division (had) to truck the food back."

In one instance, lower level advisers tried to report such incident to pacification chief William Colby, but a supervisor told them to "keep your mouth shut with regard to . . . commodities."

Thus, the scandal was kept hushed up while each year more than half the $18 million worth of food failed to reach Vietnamese for whom it was intended.

Finally, the program was all but shut down.

FOOTNOTE: Food for Peace coordinator Irwin Hedges told us the bulgar was sent to Vietnam because Indonesians liked it and U.S. officials thought Vietnamese would eat it, too. Hedges, speaking of the overall Vietnam Food for Peace disaster, said candidly: "Some of the violations were so flagrant, I'm surprised there was no publicity. But in the context of the whole Vietnamese debacle, I suppose this seemed kind of minor."

Don Nixon's Story.

There's another side to Donald Nixon, the President's wheeler-dealer brother, whose efforts to profit on the Nixon name have been exposed in this space.

He has shied away from talking to us, but his friends have told us his side. They say he is a warm, jovial, generous man who grasps too hard for success but means no harm.

The Nixon brothers, Richard and Donald, went to North Carolina for schooling during the depression years. Richard had a scholarship to Duke University; Donald enrolled in Guilford Preparatory School.

But their funds ran out; there wasn't enough money to keep both boys in school.

Richard, who had a scholarship and a 35-cent-an-hour job, stayed. Donald went home to work in the family grocery store. He got up every morning before five to help his parents eke out a living.

When they got ahead a few pennies, they would send a little money to Richard. The law student who was to become President of the United States also loaded up with supplies at the family store when he came home between semesters.

Donald, because of his sacrifice to help his famous brother get an education, never returned to college except for a few night classes at the University of Southern California.

Nixon's Obstacle

President Nixon's China trip puts him in history's most aggressive country, a basic fact momentarily buried. Mr. Nixon knows two things: first, that we are confused about this and, second, that this sleeping giant has awakened again — atom-equipped, probing and restless.

Two thousand years ago every third man in China was conscripted to build its Great Wall — averaging 25 feet high, 22 feet thick, 1,500 miles long, a watchtower every 300 yards. A million Chinese died in this 10-year undertaking and are buried in the Great Wall, their spirits guarded it. Yet it was the Chinese themselves who scaled their Great Wall and expanded into the very area it had been built to border.

They even probed as far as the outposts of the Roman Empire. Finding these strong, they finally came home.

Since 1858 European powers and Japan have ravaged China. But throughout four millenia China's persistent aggressions have expanded the area that could properly be called China from the three small provinces in the Yellow River Valley to the present vast Chinese boundaries. For a thousand years the Chinese have been using the technique of expansion to make new provinces — the technique which helped make Canton, for example, and all the rest of South China into Peking's territory

Ah, but this characterized earlier regimes? Well, this regime split Korea. A million Koreans fled South when Mao Tse-tung took over in the north. Two million North Vietnamese fled south in that China-backed thrust as well. The Red regime overran Tibet and despoiled Laos. More than 100,000 Tibetans fled Tibet into India and are pitiable refugees there to this day. The regime attacked India. Who shattered in the Himalayan snows the Indian nonsense about coexistence with Red China? Mao Tse-tung himself has stated: "Our policy is to make use of contradictions, win over the many, oppose the few and crush our enemies one by one."

We are fortunate that President Nixon is alarmed by this record and knows this objective. And Mr. Nixon is also privately impressed that at the human level — even internally — during the last two famine years throughout most of China Peking exported more than 200,000 tons of rice a year to Castro's Cuba. Was the regime more interested in its own starving people or in helping America's enemy in the Western Hemisphere?

From 478 B.C. until Mao took over, all generations of Chinese venerated the moral principles of Confucius (551-479 B.C.) as pronounced in the Confucianist "Analects." Confucious (K'ung Fu-tzu to the Chinese) was not a religious leader, as we so widely suppose. He offered the Chinese people no personal god. He was solely a spiritual leader, a philosopher.

Confucius emphasized five virtues: kindness, truthfulness, politeness, integrity and sagacity. He taught subordination to parents and relatives in what he called "the core of life," the family system. Confucius taught that this gives you immortality because it makes your life merely a link in an infinite chain of lives.

But only 19 million communist party members, that's all, control more than 730 million people in China. And Mao's famous slogan that "the gun must never command the party" is sheer nonsense. The gun is the party. This involves the army as the outside gun and the guns of the secret police on the inside of the party.

When Mao took over he knew that communism could not compete with Confucius Quoting Red god Lenin, Mao shouted that "religion is the opium of the masses." In effect, Mao substituted Machiavelli for Confucius.

Machiavelli said that the essence of life is a taking over —the strong taking over the weak. The weak have to be decent while the strong can choose to be decent. To be benevolent you must first be a despot. Men can be led to believe the lie they want to believe. Millions find it more comforting to surrender. That's Machiavelli — and that's Mao.

The controlling fact is that Red Mao has turned China toward a Machiavellian philosophy instead of a Confucianist one. This is largely unrealized by us. But President Nixon knows it, and nothing in his China trip is a more fundamental obstacle than that fact.

Strategy Hangs on Economy Peg

WASHINGTON (NEA)

By accident or design, the Nixon budget is carefully tailored to give selected industries a shot of adrenalin in time for the November election.

These companies, to a considerable extent, are located in specific regions — the West Coast and parts of the South, for example — where Mr. Nixon must win in order to be re-elected. They include, or course, the particularly depressed space and military industries.

Nationwide and overall, unemployment this year will remain high. The best guesses given run from 5.2 to 5.5 per cent, with some higher. But those are averages. If Mr. Nixon's programs go through, unemployment will be down considerably in specific states and among those groups were joblessness could cause him serious political trouble.

Don't look at the spending figures. Instead, study the authorizations for major new programs, designed to expand over the next few years. These starts, as they begin to fire up, will go heavily into tooling up, hiring and exploring for what subcontractors can do. This should stimulate greatly the signing on of blue-collar operatives, clerks and engineers.

These are not the groupings where unemployment has been the greatest percentagewise. But this is where there have been some of the greatest problems.

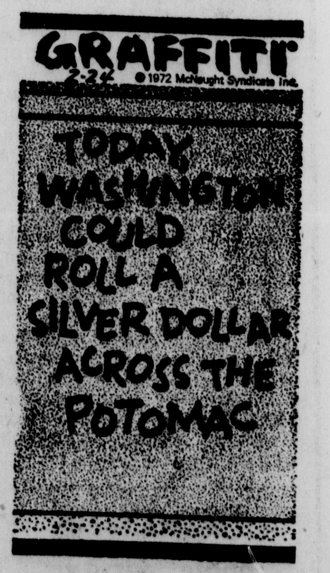

The unemployment rate in November will still be very high among married women, high school and college age youths and among those looking for part-time jobs.

But unemployment should be below 2.8 per cent among married men and low compared to January-February 1972 for women who are heads of households.

The new budget also increases spending markedly for the aged — added jobs, more programs, more concern for their over-all livelihood. Older persons should normally do well by Mr. Nixon in the voting booths if their living conditions are on the mend.

Mr. Nixon has a number of safety valves to take the steam out of some of the most difficult solutions among the major unemployed groups remaining. Welfare funding will continue high, some $2.25 billion in budget authority will be made available to state and local governments in fiscal 1972 and 1973 to create transitional or temporary employment. Most of these funds will be pumped to the system before November, 1972, if Mr. Nixon gets congressional action in time. This is new money and new programs beginning this 1972 fiscal year.

Altogether manpower training, servicing, job assistance will total a whopping $9.4 billion dollars for fiscal 1972 and 1973, congress willing. This is almost double the funds available for these purposes in the two previous fiscal years. The two fiscal years have been combined for this analysis, because it is known that, as in the public service job program mentioned above, Mr. Nixon plans to pump as much of this money into action in calendar year 1972 as he possibly can to get the economy on its feet and rolling before Nov. 7.

Tumor Clinic Hearing Is Scheduled

KINGSTON — A public hearing on the proposal to lease the county Tumor Clinic building to Kingston Hospital has been set for March 1 at 7 p.m. in the chamber of the Ulster County Legislature.

Specifically the proposal calls for leasing the building to the hospital for five years at one dollar a year, with option to renew; and that the equipment be sold to the hospital for one dollar on the condition that the hospital operate the clinic. Also that the Ulster County Mental Health Clinic be guaranteed continuity of it services in the building and permit the Ulster County Unit, American Cancer Society to retain its headquarters in the building which is adjacent to the hospital.

In a press release issued this week, Anthony R. Triulzi, administrator of Kingston Hospital explained that patients of the Ulster County Tumor Clinic are continuing to receive needed treatments, even though official decision as to the clinic's future operation awaits results of the public hearing.

"But for the action of the Kingston Hospital in assuming Tumor Clinic responsibility, the clinic might have closed its doors on Dec. 31 of last year when the Ulster County Board of Health officially terminated all services after state aid was cut off," Triulzi said.

"As it was, the Kingston Hospital, through its Department of Radiology, took over the operation the following day and patients were spared the ordeal of traveling to distant areas to continue their treatments. The clinic offers radiation therapy, chemotherapy and diagnostic services, primarily for cancer patients.

"Due to the Hospital's action, a total of 240 patients did in fact receive treatment at the Tumor Clinic in January.

Legal details were far from completely resolved, but all concerned—principally Melvin Mones, chairman of the County Legislature's Public Health Committee: Dr. William C. Taylor, commissioner of health; Peter J. Savago, County Legislature Chairman, and Triulzi, all agreed that there was a moral responsibility to assure a continuity of treatment.

"Clearly this was a service which should exist, and the Kingston Hospital was in a position to provide the necessary continuity of service," Triulzi said.

"Prior to Jan. 1, the clinic had been operated for over 22 years by the county. Its annual budget had reached $131,478, of which $56,478 was paid by county taxpayers. The balance came from state aid reimbursement and revenue accrued by the clinic.

"Loss of state aid came as no surprise, a fact which helped in the smooth transition of operation. When the last clinic director, Dr. Joseph P. Tumblety, resigned in August of 1971, he was not replaced on the county payroll, but his duties were assumed by Dr. Ted R. Smalldon and Dr. Peter O'Hara, Kingston Hospital radiologists.

"In January, when the county bowed out of the picture, Mrs. Jules Cione of the hospital's Department of Radiology, took over administrative duties of the Tumor Clinic as well. Other staff members continued on their jobs, the only difference being that their paychecks now come from the hospital instead of from the county. Countless volunteers from the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary also aided in the task.

"As far back as December, 1970, Dr. Ralph E. Dwork, associate director of the Office of Community Health Services, New York State Department of Health, indicated that the state was reviewing its reimbursement policies in line with the general cut-back in state spending and a earlier recommendation by the Northern Metropolitan Health and Hospital Council, Inc., that radiation therapy should be provided in a setting which is integrated with a hospital providing a complete array of inpatient and outpatient services.

"This same council report made it clear that the council would not consider Ulster County's request, made in November, 1969, for permission to install a Cobalt Unit at the Tumor Clinic," Triulzi explained.

The report stated that, "the existing independent tumor clinic thus does not provide an appropriate setting for the further expansion of radiation therapy services. Expansion of these services by inclusion of cobalt or other therapy programs should be considered only in connection with the integration of radiation therapy within the medical service center complex. Under those conditions, the need for expanded radiation therapy service in Ulster County would be evaluated."

Triulzi said that "with the handwriting on the wall, the Public Health Committee of the County Legislature late in 1970 sounded out both the Kingston and Benedictine Hospitals to see if either was interested in taking over the clinic from the county in order to assure the citizens of the county continued care in this field.

"Both hospitals recognized that the best interests of the people of the county would be served by having the clinic integrated with a hospital. Sister Mary Charles, administrator of the Benedictine, reported that the Board of Directors of that hospital felt that since the Kingston Hospital because of its proximity to the Tumor Clinic will be able to operate it more effectively, we are willing to forego the privilege of sharing its direct operation at this time."

If the hospital does integrate the Tumor Clinic in its operation, the matter of a cobalt unit for Ulster County would again be open to evaluation by the Health and Hospital Council, with approval a more likely possibility than if the Tumor Clinic were to continue as a free standing facility. The Kingston Hospital has indicated that it will apply for permisson to nstall a cobalt unit if it is granted the lease on the Tumor Clinic building.

Legislator Cites Petition Rights

"Citizens should have the right to change or create law by petition on the County and State levels" according to Ulster County Legislator Alex Nirenberg (D-Wawarsing) who today said he will submit resolutions at the next meeting of the County Legislature calling upon the State to give the people this basic right.

Noting a bill submitted in the assembly by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell asking for a constitutional amendment to allow the right of petition on the State level, Nirenberg suggests this go one step further and allow citizens, by petition bearing the signature of at least 5 per cent of the qualified voters who voted in the last general election, to suggest new legislation or changes in existing legislation to a County Legislature or Board of Supervisors.

Nirenberg's resolution asks the State Legislature to "amend the County Law of the State of New York to require thorough consideration of any piece of legislation petitioned for by 5 per cent of the qualified voters in a County, by a County Government," and, "in the event the County Government should fail to enact such legislation, a re-petition by 5 per cent of the registered voters in each town and city within a county would require that legislation to be placed on the ballot at the next general election for a vote by the people."

Nirenberg says, "The Vox Populi (voice of the people) should again take it's proper place in government, especially since most governmental bodies have been turning more and more away from the true needs and wishes of the people."

In a second resolution he will submit at the March meeting of the Ulster County Legislature, Nirenberg asks the Ulster County Legislature to show its support for Assemblyman Bell's bill calling for the right of petition on the State level.

The Other Day

Michael Leopold

A philosopher was talking about some of the things that have been said about mankind, and he quoted Christopher Morley's definition: "Man is an ingenious arrangement of portable plumbing." Another that amused us was: "Mammals are classified thus: man and the lower animals. Man does the classifying." We understand there was a framed Indian proverb hanging in Arthur Godfrey's office which read: "Judge no man until you have walked in his moccasins two moons," which is surely worth remembering. He said, "You can judge a man by the proverbs he likes." And we hope you'll also judge us by our desire to SERVE, and our top values here now!

Angela Davis Out on Bail, Taken to Secret Location

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—Angela Davis was freed on $102,500 bail Wednesday night and driven past cheering supporters by defense attorneys who said, "We're ready, we've been ready," for the start of her trial Monday.

"Right on," shouted about 50 admirers as the 28-year-old former UCLA instructor, jailed 16 months on murder, kidnap and conspiracy charges, was whisked by car from the Palo Alto facility to an undisclosed location.

The bail money was put up by Roger McAfee, a farmer in the Fresno area who said he was impressed by Miss Davis and the struggle she represented, according to a spokesman from her defense committee.

Her attorneys said Miss Davis would appear at a San Jose news conference today, but did not indicate if she would speak. The order allowing her bond release included a long list of conditions, including one forbiding her to attend rallies or public meetings without the court's permission.

Other conditions imposed by Superior Court Judge Richard E. Arnason included not discussing the case in public, not to "travel by air," and forbid her to "possess or control any firearms."

She was also ordered to take up residence in Santa Clara County, site of the courthouse where more than $200,000 has been spent for security arrangements for her trial.

Bail was posted four hours after the judge's ruling by bondsman Steve Sparacino. He refused to say who put up the required cash, but said Miss Davis' lawyers contacted him two weeks ago to make arrangements.

The judge's order specified that $100,000 of the bond be posted as surety and $2,500 in cash. The bondsman arrived to post bail at 7 p.m., two hours after the county clerk's office closed, but Sheriff James Cleary was authorized to accept the bail money.

Communists Walk Out Of Paris Peace Talks

PARIS (UPI) — Communist delegates walked out of the Paris peace talks today, condemning President Nixon for escalating the war in Vietnam.

The Communists suggested the talks continue next week but U.S. and South Vietnamese negotiators rejected the proposal, leaving the status of the three-year-old conference in confusion.

The walkout—the first for the Communists in the history of the talks—came while Nixon is meeting with Chinese officials in Peking.

The U.S. and Saigon delegations called off last week's session protesting a Communist meeting in nearby Versailles.

Hanoi negotiator Xuan Thuy and Viet Cong delegate Nguyen Van Tien left the conference room after reading prepared statements violently condemning Nixon's policies.

Thuy and Tien said any Vietnamese peace settlement must be achieved by dealing with them.

They read their statements to U.S. negotiator William J. Porter and Saigon's Pham Dang Lam. The Communists then asked for a suspension until next Thursday and walked out of the conference hall.

Thuy's statement accused the United States of intensifying the air war against North Vietnam last Wednesday and Thursday—when Nixon left on his trip to China.

Meanwhile on the war front South Vietnamese troops stumbled on four Chinese-made 160-mm mortars hidden in hillside tunnels during a sweep of the Central Highlands, a U.S. spokesman said Wednesday.

The mortars capable of firing a shell five miles, were the first of their kind seen in South Vietnam. They were hidden within range of the key Fire Base Five and the provincial capital of Kontum City.

Intelligence reports said the Communists could have brought up the heavy guns for a new offensive in the Central Highlands.

In the Mekong Delta, Communist soldiers took heavy losses when they assaulted two government outposts 40 miles north of Saigon, government spokesmen said.

The Viet Cong softened up one 30-man government outpost with an artillery barrage then a ground attack. Reinforcements came and pushed them back, but the government lost five men killed and 10 wounded. Eleven guerrilla bodies were counted.

Spokesmen said fighting which broke out Sunday near Base Camp Black Horse flared again Wednesday with the Viiet Cong's 33rd Regiment. One government soldier died and one was wounded. The Communists lost 29 men.

Elsewhere, U.S. Air Force Phantom jet bombers struck an artillery site that fired on them 45 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ). No damage was reported to either the planes or the guns.

Two Gunmen Bomb Londonderry Shop

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Two gunmen bombed a Londonderry electrical appliance shop today. In Strabane, suspected arsonists touched off a major fire at the town hall.

The army said two gunmen entered the appliance shop, planted a box on the counter and gave the staff three minutes to clear out. Fire broke out after the bomb exploded and caused extensive damage. No one was injured.

A spokesman said army units helped firemen battle the blaze at the town hall in Strabane. Strabane is the birthplace of John Dunlap, who emigrated to the United States and established the newspaper Pennsylvania Packet in 1771 and printed the U.S. Declaration of Independence.

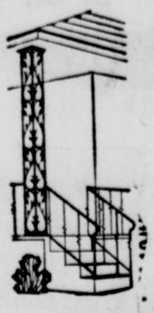

The 15,000 British troops in Northern Ireland swung into their peace-keeping roles today armed with police powers they thought they had all along.

In London, the British parliament Wednesday night rushed through a bill overriding a ruling by the Northern Ireland high court in Belfast that the army had no authority to order demonstrators to disperse. By implication, the court ruling also questioned the army's right to search people suspected of carrying arms and explosives.

It was the first time in more than 40 years a bill had been pushed through both the House of Commons and House of Lords in one sitting. The bill said: "The law so far as the powers of the armed forces are concerned is and always has been what it has hitherto believed to be."

In Dublin, police held Cathal Goulding, chief of staff of the IRA's official wing and seven members of the IRA's Sinn Fein political wing for questioning about the bombing of an army base in Aldershot, England, Tuesday.

HONOR EDINGER — Ulster County Environmental Sanitary Engineer Harry F. Accolades, Anecdotes . . . Highlight Edinger Dinner

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — The testimonial dinner for Ulster County's recently retired environmental sanitary engineer, Harry Edinger Wednesday night at the Walnut Grove, played to a packed house (more than 300) and was packed full of accolades, anecdotes and much acclaim for the man who has over the past 38 years managed to give repeatedly accurate advice on anything from immunization to contaminated soup to septic systems.

"There are very few your equal," said Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, New York State Commissioner of Health who praised Edinger for "having belived in the importance of his life's work."

Telling of the engineer's many enticements to go on to other and even more important positions in other locations, Dr. Ingraham and Legislative Chairman Peter J. Savago, who served as master of ceremonies, recalled that Edinger's hesitancy in leaving was due to his strong commitment to "Ulster County — his home."

Labeling Edinger the "single most effective force in the county during the drought of the 1950s, Savago suggested that the large number of persons who turned out to pay tribute to him was indicative of his many accomplishments and his ability to reach many people from many areas of the community.

Dr. Ingraham recalled that Edinger's work (which was not always popular with the resort and camp owners of the county) not only successfully aided Ulster County but had great impact on all of New York State.

The tribute was punctuated with the reading of telegrams and messages from a score of well wishers and with remarks from guests such as Dr. Ingraham who stated effectively and simply, "I wish we still had him."

Edinger himself, noticing that everyone "from his neighborhood and from everywhere" turned out for the tribute, said his aim throughout his career was "to accomplish much with a low key profile."

He in turn lauded people on the town and village level who "took responsiblity, sometimes under stress, and staked their political careers on his suggestions. That has been the biggest compliment ever," he said.

Thanking the many who had helped him over the years, Edinger made a point of saying with much pride that "no one ever pulled any political weight."

Savago too, told of employes, politicians, land and business owners all seeking information from Edinger's Department, adding, "there isn't anyone who hasn't gone to Harry for advice."

Edinger was presented a plaque from the county and from officials in New Paltz in addition to numerous gifts from dinner guests and department employes.

Paltz Switch Now Approved

NEW PALTZ — The State Education Department has approved the change of title of the chief administrator of the New Paltz Central School district from Supervising Principal to Superintendent of Schools, according to Dr. George J. Smith, acting supervising principal. The announcement was made at Wednesday's meeting of the New Paltz Board of Education.

Smith said he had been informed of the approval by Harry Langworth of the State Educaion Department Feb. 11. The change will be effective July 1.

The New Paltz district is eligible to have a superintendent of schools now that it has more than 2,000 students. The present student population of the school district is just over that figure.

The district is presently operating under the district principalship of Dr. Jack Roosa of BOCES. The district is responsible to him in the area of administration.

Under the superintendency, the district will have greater local control, and be responsible directly to the state.

The district is presently looking for another chief administrator. Supervising Principal Frederick Dippel, after 14 years at his post, retired in January. Smith is serving in an acting capacity, and is a professor of school administration at the State University College at New Paltz.

Dr. John Hain, head of the school board's committee on administrative vacancies, reported the search was in progress for Dippel's successor. Board president Donald Martin said 16 applicaations for the post had been received.

Martin said applicants had been received from as far away as Ohio and Michigan. According to Hain, applications will be received until April 1.

The salary frozen for teachers during the freeze finally thawed and was paid them in a special Feb. 11 payroll, according to Smith. He said the payment was made on the advice of the board's attorneys, and confirmation of the legality of the move had been received from the Internal Revenue Service.

CSEA Proposals to Be Discussed

KINGSTON — Intensive discussion of all phases of proposals to be submitted in negotiations for a new contract with the Ulster County Legislature, will highlight a regular meeting of the Ulster County Unit of the Civil Service Employes Association to be held at 8 p.m. today at the County Courthouse, according to CSEA president John Ray Mayone.

Mayone noted that the county employes are currently in the second year of a two-year contract, and negotiations with the County Legislature for a new contract to become effective Jan. 1, 1973, are scheduled to start early in the spring.

Matters to be discussed tonight wil include salaries, job classifications, retirement, sick leave and numerous other departmental proposals.

Officers of the Ulster County unit of the CSEA in addition to Mayone are Mrs. Joan Winne and Lester Markle, vice presidents; Carrie Clay, recording secretary; Mrs. Marie Gotelli, corresponding secretary and William Zacher, treasurer.

The Board of Directors comprises Hyman Kohan, Donald E. Burger, John R. Donnaruma, Doris Arnesen and Margaret Neenan.

Mrs. Judy Murray, past president of the unit, is serving as an advisor to the board.

Harold Pinckney of the County Health Department is chairman of the grievance committee.

The officers and directors will meet in closed session at 7 p.m. prior to the regular meeting, Mayone said. He urges all interested county employes to attend the business session.

The Ulster County unit CSEA represents all employes of the county, some 1,500, and it is officially designated bargaining agent for all employes in the county departments.

Disabling Drawbridges Case Raises Job Action Question

NEW YORK (AP) — The indictment of a city employes labor leader on charges stemming from the disabling of 23 movable drawbridges last June has resurrected the issue of what constitutes a legal job action.

Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan, who announced the indictment against Barry Feinstein on Wednesday, said a job action was criminal "whenever people are hurt, or property damaged, wherever there is violation of the penal law."

Victor H. Gotbaum, head of District Council 37 of the State, County and Municipal Employes Union whose members also participated in the two-day tie-up, argued that almost every strike involves "some kind of violence or criminal action."

Feinstein, president of the City Employes Union, a local of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, pleaded innocent Wednesday to seven counts of first-degree tampering, felonies; and four misdemeanor charges.

The indictment alleged that Feinstein "instructed" bridge operators to open and abandon the bridges if a strike were called to protest the state legislature's failure to grant the city employes pension rights equal to those of police and firemen.

"This is definitely persecution and discrimination against a labor leader," Gotbaum said of the indictment. "It's devious and disgraceful, and I just can't believe this kind of action against one of the most responsible labor leaders in town will not arouse the anger and antagonism of the whole labor movement."

Tens of thousands of commuters from Long Island and upstate were trapped for up to 10 hours last June 7 by the unserviceable bridges preventing vehicular traffic from crossing rivers and canals into and out of the city.

About 6,300 municipal workers from several unions have been fined for participating in the job action in violation of the state's Taylor Law, which prohibits strikes by public employes.

Doing the Right Thing

BY ELIZABETH L. POST

DEAR MRS. POST:

Last Christmas we had the family for dinner. My step-granddaughter brought a young man with her who had never been to my home before. During the meal this fellow got up and started to serve coffee, which I thought was ill-mannered as he was just a guest.

When the meal was over, he came out to the kitchen and started putting scraps — bones and all — into the garbage disposal. I told him I did not want bones put in, but he deliberately put them in anyway saying, "I put bones in my disposal in my apartment." It jammed, and he had to fish all the bones out with his hand.

There was ill-feeling between us, and when he left he never apologized or said good-bye.

What is your opinion of a person like that?

MRS. A.L.

DEAR MRS. L.:

I'm sure tha the young man was actually trying to be helpful, and to make a good impression on his girl's (your step-granddaughter's) family.

I was his method rather than his intention which was in poor taste. He should have asked you if he might help you by serving the coffee. Then, although it was very considerate of him to try to assist with the clean-up, he should have respected your wishes about bones in your disposal. However, I think his heart is in the right place, and if I were you I would be pleased my grandaughter had found a man who was so willing to "pitch in."

I suspect he didn't feel he had anything to apologize for, but he should definitely have thanked you for dinner and said good-bye pleasantly when he left.

Dad Learns to Love 'Special' Child

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I want to do something now that I have been wanting to do for seven months. I want to say "thank you" for something you did for me.

On May 6, 1971, our second son was born. But he was not like our first, healthy, "normal" son. He is Mongoloid. With the help of family, friends and doctors, I prepared myself for the raising of our "special" child. But the acceptance came much harder for my proud husband. It's easier for a mother to love the child she has carried for nine months, but for the father, that love sometimes comes harder, and after many forced smiles and sleepless nights, my husband now admits that he was miserable. Needlessly miserable, he knows now, but at first he wondered if he could ever "love" his second son as he should.

On May 11, your column concerning Mongoloid babies appeared. It could not have come out at a better time for us. THAT made the difference in my husband's life. After reading that column, he no longer had that "why-did-this-have-to-happen-to-us" attitude. And just knowing how other people have handled it can help a lot.

Our baby is eight months old now, and a happier child I've never seen. And I know a lot of his happiness comes from knowing that his mother and daddy and brother really love and accept him totally.

Dear, Dear Abby, if you did nothing else in 1971, you have helped one father find the love he always had for his "special" child. Thank you!

DOUG'S MOTHER
FORT WORTH, TEXAS

DEAR MOTHER: Your letter made this five-feet-nothing columnist nine feet tall today. After this appears, I know I'll be deluged with requests to reprint that column, so tomorrow, with the kind indulgence of those readers who have already read it, I shall do so.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the identical twin who said she did not enjoy being a twin, and didn't believe twins had any special "closeness" between them:

You are dead wrong! I've been a twin for 52 years, and altho my twin and I are separated by thousands of miles, we still think and feel alike. When she had a back operation, my back actually ached. When I was laid up after an auto accident, she said she felt my pain.

She bought a fur coat in New York. I bought the identical fur coat in San Francisco! (Neither one knew the other was even considering a fur coat!)

She sent me an ash tray for an anniversary. I had just bought one for myself exactly like it.

It's almost weird the way we think and feel alike, but it's the truth. Please sign me...

GREAT TO BE A TWIN

DEAR GREAT: No identical twin would doubt you. At least, not this one.

DEAR ABBY: I shall be receiving my engagement diamond in a few weeks and I want very much to have my picture in the newspaper's society section announcing my engagement and wedding plans.

My problem: I am a divorcee with a 5-year-old child. I was not formally engaged the first time because I had a shotgun wedding.

Under the circumstances, would it be proper for me to announce my engagement with a picture in the paper just like all the other brides?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: It is proper for a divorcee to announce her engagement and wedding plans, but the announcement should include the fact that you are MRS. SO AND SO, and the mother of a child by a previous marriage. To deliberately omit these facts would leave you open to criticism.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

HEALTH CAREERS WEEK — County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago presents a copy of public decree he initiated designating March 5-11 as Health Careers Week. The public decree is designed to promote a greater public awareness of the manpower needs in health related fields. Accepting the decree from Chariman Savago for Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary are (L-R) Mrs. Anthony Vicevich, Auxiliary president; Mrs. Thomas Provenzano and Mrs. J. Michael Bruhn. In conjunction with the observance of Health Careers Week, the Auxiliary is conducting a poster contest in which all school-nurse-teachers are cooperating in 55 county schools. Savago Designates Week For Health Related Fields

County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago this week issued a public decree designating March 5th through the 11th as Health Careers Week.

Chairman Savago stated:

"The Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary is conducting a Health Careers Poster Contest throughout the school systems in Ulster County.

"Fifty-five schools in Ulster County are expected to participate to encourage young people to think creatively about careers in health and to promote a greater public awareness of the state's health manpower needs.

"There is an obvious critical shortage of professionals and paramedical health workers in this area, and opportunities in hospitals and other health organizations are varied and numerous.

"The Health Careers Poster Contest would serve to create interest among high school students in regard to rewarding jobs in the health field.

"I Therefore, County Legislature Chairman, Peter J. Savago hereby designate the week of March 5th thru the 11th, 1972 as Health Careers Week in Ulster County and urge participation of students in all schools in cooperation with teachers and other organizations involved."

OFFICERS ELECTED — Kingston Hairdressers Association, Affiliate No. 69, held installation of officers at a dinner meeting Feb. 22 at Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston. Elected were (L-R) Carmel Fabiano, treasurer; Irene Mance, president; Joseph Donato Jr., vice president; Juanita Quackenbush, recording secretary and April Miller, corresponding secretary.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

An easy, pleasant way to give your dog a tablet, when your veterinarian recommends that you do so, is to cover it with a piece of cheese, making a little ball of it.

He will think he is getting a treat and will be very willing to take it.

We think this is much better than forcing his mouth open and shoving it down his throat.

Dog Lover

A tidbit wrapped in cheese would even make me sit up and beg!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

After a recent trip, our little neighbor, who has just turned six, came over to show me her rock collection.

She very precisly laid each one out on the table for me to examine. All the while, she was explaining what each one was.

One particularly interesting piece she was especially proud of. She held it up for me to see and said, "This one is real neat. It used to be part of a tree, but now they call it 'terrified' wood."

How's that from the mouths of babes?

Bobbi's neighbor

Dear Heloise:

To make it easier to find matching blouses and tops for your skirts and pants, put them together in the closet by color.

It doesn't take long to get in the habit of doing this after each wash.

Besides, it sure makes your closet look neater.

Margie

Dear Heloise:

Like steak? But don't like to clean up the broiler?

Use a cast-iron skillet — preheat it over the gas range at the same time you preheat the broiler.

When the pan is good and hot, place the steak in it.

Put some sweetened wine over the steak. Then add some soy sauce and garlic salt.

Place the pan in the broiler.

Do not turn the steak over. When it is finished — invite me over!

Al Monyek

Al, what a scrumptillious idea! It s fantastic.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I hope this hint may save some of your readers a few precious minutes when preparing a meal.

When making soup, gravy, etc., that calls for a premeasured amount of water to be boiled, why not use the bottom portion of your glass percolator?

After boiling, the excess water can be poured off to the proper cup level and added to the mix without the extra step of pouring into a measuring cup.

NCAA Goes to Court Against Porter — ABA

HOWARD PORTER

By CHARLIE SMITH
UPI Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The affadavit sworn to by Howard Porter Feb. 4, 1971, reads as follows:

Q. Have you ever signed a contract or statement of intent to contract with any professional team, league, agent or agency?

A. No.

Q. If so, when and with whom?

A. No one.

Q. Have you verbally agreed to sign a contract in the future with any professional team, league, agent or agency?

A. No.

Q. If so, when and with whom?

A. No one.

Q. Have you been paid, or promised the payment of, money or a benefit of any kind by a professional team, league or agency?

A. No.

Q. If so, when, by whom, and what was the payment?

A. No one.

Q. Have you ever been solicited or asked to sign a contract or statement or intent to contract by any professional team, league, agent or agency?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever given anyone your consent to negotiate in your behalf with any professional team or league?

A. No.

Q. If so, when and to whom?

A. No one.

The statement was notarized by Mary Gamble, Radnor Township, Delaware County, Pa., and signed by Porter.

That affadavit, along with the contract Porter entered into with the American Basketball Association, dated Dec. 16, 1970, will be exhibits when the NCAA goes to court against Porter and the ABA.

The NCAA, through executive director Walter Byers, announced the lawsuit Wednesday, asking for $216,663 in general, specific and exemplary damages against the defendants.

The legal action was the first ever undertaken by the NCAA, although it has been involved in numerous lawsuits as a defendant. Byers estimated that the NCAA has averaged three legal suits a year in the last five years.

The NCAA's suit was filed Wednesday in Delaware County Court in Media, Pa., by attorney Ralph A. D'Iorio.

Before the affadavit was taken, Porter signed a statement to Villanova athletic director Art Mahan, in which he denied he signed a contract with any ABA club, signed a contract with the league, having an agent or any agents, and did not enter into any verbal agreement with anyone in regard to his basketball future.

"I was advised by Coach (Jack) Kraft as to the legalities under college basketball standards," he said.

Because of his sworn testimony, Villanova and the NCAA allowed Porter to finish his eligibility. The All-America forward led the Wildcats to a second-place finish in the NCAA tournament last March.

It was subsequently revealed, however, that Porter had indeed signed with the ABA and Pittsburgh. When he also signed a National Basketball Association contract with the Chicago Bulls, where he is now performing, his previous contracts were made a matter of public record.

Villanova then was forced to forfeit its runnerup finish and its share of the NCAA tournament receipts, $72,347.84.

The NCAA's suit against Porter and the ABA seeks to enjoin the ABA from concealing further secret signings of collegiate players with eligibility remaining.

Byers said further secret signings this year "not only is possible, but probable." He said, however, the NCAA now has no individual under investigation.

Byers also revealed the NCAA may seek legal action against Jim McDaniels and the ABA or an ABA club because he allegedly signed a professional contract Nov. 30, 1970. McDaniels led Western Kentucky to a third-place finish in the 1971 NCAA tournament.

McDaniels also signed an affadavit similar to the one signed by Porter, Byers said.

ECAC Votes Frosh Rule

NEW YORK (UPI)—Freshmen athletes in the East have the typically bad, bad winter weather to thank for their getting a chance to play varsity football next fall.

The Eastern College Athletic Conference's University Division membership Wednesday voted in favor of allowing freshmen to play varsity basketball and football beginning next season.

The ECAC membership voted overwhelmingly in favor of the basketball proposal, 33-20, but the football vote was only 22-21 and would have been defeated had Cornell been able to attend the annual winter meeting. But hostile weather conditions in upstate New York prevented Big Red representatives from participating.

A Cornell spokesman said the university would have gone along with the seven other Ivy League schools in voting against the proposal which would have meant a tie vote and defeat of the measure.

The Ivy League and the Yankee Conference were the two conferences most strenuously opposed to the football proposal. The University of Vermont was the only Yankee Conference school to vote in its favor.

The two service academies were split in their voting. Army voting against both the football and basketball proposals, and Navy affirming both.

Two other unusual circumstances allowed the freshman proposal to become an official part of the ECAC body of law.

The decisive vote, for instance, was cast by Morgan State, which had only been admitted to the ECAC earlier in the day—along with Monmouth College, William Patterson and Newark State.

Then, five schools which do not even have a football program voted in favor of the proposal after a motion preventing non-football schools from participating in the voting was defeated. Most non-football schools did refrain from voting, but Buffalo State, LaSalle, George Washington, St. John's and Seton Hall lent the proposal enough force to carry the day.

On other matters concerning freshmen athletes, it was agreed that if a freshman player transfers from one school to another and isn't competent enough to make the varsity at his new school, he will be denied a year of eligibility even if he is relegated to junior varsity status. A year of eligibility will also be counted against a freshman even though he does not actually play in his first year on the varsity.

If an athlete transfers from one school to another and takes up a sport that was not a part of his previous school's athletic program, the athlete will not have to sit out a year before attaining eligibility.

The election of officers was another major item of the day's agenda. Robert M. "Scotty" Whitelaw succeeded George Shiebler as ECAC commissioner; Ross H. Smith of MIT is the new president and Harold S. Westerman of Maine assumed the duties of vice president.

Nets Did It: Top Indiana

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — "We weren't thinking about the streak—we were just sick and tired of losing to them," New York's Rick Barry said after the Nets did something they hadn't managed in nearly two American Basketball Association seasons.

The Nets edged Indiana 108-106 Wednesday night, the first time in eight games—three of them this season—that they have been able to beat the Pacers.

Melchionni added 28 points for the Nets and Paultz, outplaying Mel Daniels on both ends of the court, scored 24 and grabbed 18 rebounds to Daniels' 11 points and 13 rebounds.

"I don't like the competitive attitude of this club," Indiana Coach Bob Leonard said of his Pacers. "The way we're playing, we could get beaten in the first round of the playoffs.

"One thing about coaching—you can't put pride and heart in the players. They can come up with excuses but none of them mean a thing," Leonard said. "That's why I admire Rick. He comes to play every night—but then, so do all the great ones.

"Normally," he added, "when we battle back, we win. But tonight we just gave the points right back."

The Pacers, trailing 41-25 early in the second quarter and 59-50 at the half, tied it 67-67 midway in the third period, then kept pace with the Nets until Jim Ard's basket with 9:40 to play put New York ahead for good, 91-89.

The lead widened to 98-91, before Indiana fought back again to within a point at 100-99—but the rally fell short. George McGinniss, with 24 points, and Bob Netolicky, with 22, paced Indiana.

In the NBA, Nate Archibald, Cincinnati's 6-foot guard scored a career high 55 points to lead the Royals to a 110-106 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers.

In other games, Boston Celtics edged Cleveland Cavaliers, 113-111, the Atlanta Hawks nipped the Phoenix Suns, 120-118, the Milwaukee Bucks defeated the Baltimore Bullets, 113-105; Houston Rockets upset the Los Angeles Lakers, 115-110, and Seattle SuperSonics beat the Detroit Pistons, 97-96.

Jo Jo White scored 29 points and dropped in a 15-foot jump shot with 13 seconds left to give the Celtics the win over Cleveland.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored four of his 35 points on two clutch baskets in the final minutes to lead the Buck over Baltimore.

An 18-point first quarter by Elvin Hayes sparked Houston's surprising win over the Lakers. Hayes finished with 33 points and Jerry West's 36 led the Lakers who have lost two straight.

No. 46 for Ratelle

NEW YORK (AP) — Vic Hadfield has spent much of this National Hockey League season scurrying into enemy nets, fishing out souvenir pucks for his center, Jean Ratelle.

Wednesday night, it ws Ratelle's turn to fish one out for Hadfield as the New York Rangers defeated Philadelphia 4-3.

The special puck was Hadfield's 40th goal of the season, a pretty maneuver scored solely on perseverence with a backhand move on goalie Doug Favell.

With Ratelle adding his 46th goal of the season and extending his goal-scoring streak to eight consecutive games, two short of the modern NHL record shared by Andy Bathgate and Bobby Hull, it meant that the only member of the line who hasn't hit 40 is Rod Gilbert, And he's not far away, with 39 goals.

No line in NHL history ever has had all three members hit 40 goals and, more important, no line ever has had all three hit 100 points. Ratelle already is past the plateau with 108, while Gilbert is nine away and Hadfield 11 away from the century mark.

The success of this line has been phenomenal this season and Hadfield thinks he knows why.

"We've changed our style a bit," the Rangers' captain said. "We're moving in closer, making the play. Our game now is controlling the puck, setting the open man up."

There was a time when Hadfield's game was aggressiveness. In fact, he led the NHL in penalty minutes one season. Has age mellowed him?

"When you're controlling the puck, there's no need to be aggressive," Hadfield said. "When you have the puck, you're not going to be running at anybody."

In other NHL action, Buffalo upset Chicago 2-1, Boston outlasted California 8-6, and St. Louis shut out Los Angeles, 2-0.

Bernie Parent, rumored to be first name player ready to jump to the newly-formed World Hockey Association, scored his second shutout of the season and 14th of his career. He stopped 23 shots as Toronto blanked the Pittsburgh Penguins, 2-0.

"I can't say anything right now," Parent replied when asked about reports that he's ready to sign a long-term $750,000 contract with the Miami team of the WHA.

Phil Esposito scored the tying and winning goals as the Bruins stormed back with seven goals in the last two periods to defeat California. Fred Stanfield completed a three-goal hat trick for the Bruins.

Cook Under Knife

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Greg Cook, of the Cincinnati Benglas once one of the most promising young quarterbacks in the National Football League, underwent surgery for a third time on his right shoulder Wednesday at Cleveland Clinic.

Cook had disclosed several weeks ago he intended to retire from professional football but conferred with his surgeon, D. H. Royer Collins, about a week later and agreed to another operation.

Beantown No Magic Lure For Unhappy Fred Dryer

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Fred Dryer was traded to the New England Patriots but says, "The only way I'd go to Boston is if they gave me a bean soup franchise or if Upton Bell came out here and told me, 'Here take all the money you want.'"

Bell is expected to disclose how many beans are in the pot Friday in a meeting in the Beverly Hills office of Dryer's attorney John Thomas.

Dryer made a career of shooting off the defensive line at opposing quarterbacks and shooting off his mouth against the New York Giants management. Such comments are describing Giants owner Wellington Mara as, "totally incompetent," and "If you had a race every team would be off and going up the track, but the Giants would blow the start."

Such free speech on the part of Dryer didn't endear him to the front office and he was traded to New England for its first draft choice this year and its Nos. 2 and 6 in 1973.

Dryer may not be serious all the time but when it comes to football he can be intense. "The good times are over," Dryer declared flatly, "I had three years of living in New York. Now it is time to get on to the Super Bowl."

Dryer wants to be on a team with Superbowl prospect and does not feel the Patriots are that team. "New York is light years away," Dryer said.

If Dryer cannot reach agreement with the Patriots, he would like to be traded to a West Coast team. "I wouldn't mind L.A., I wouldn't mind San Diego." But Oakland continues to be linked with Dryer. "I'll tell you one thing," he admitted. "There's some conniving going on."

Inverrary Big Money

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—There's the smell of money at the Inverrary condominium development this weekend.

First, the landlords are giving away $260,000 and second, they have at least one $600,000 home for sale. They hope that by giving the biggest pro golf tour purse of the year to 150 pros who teed off today in the Jackie Gleason Inverrary golf classic, they will get enough publicity to sell that high-priced spread, and some other homes for more "reasonable" amounts.

Buyers will find that the sellers have thrown in "The Great One"—a championship golf course named after comedian Jackie Gleason, but one that might earn the title on its own.

"Anybody that thinks the course is easy, should have been out there today," said Homero Blancas, after playing in Wednesday's windy pro-celebrity round.

"Today the pins were in the middle of the greens, but when they start tucking them in behind the traps and the water, it's really going to be tough," said Blancas, winner of last week's Phoenix Open.

The course—which gets its first test from the tour pros this weekend—was designed by famed golf course architect Robert Trent Jones at par 72 and 7,128 yards. It features a gently rolling contour more like some of the northern courses than those in Florida, which usually have more sudden ups and downs.

Jack Nicklaus predicted that an 8-under-par 280 might be good enough for a win. That is an unusually high winning score for four rounds.

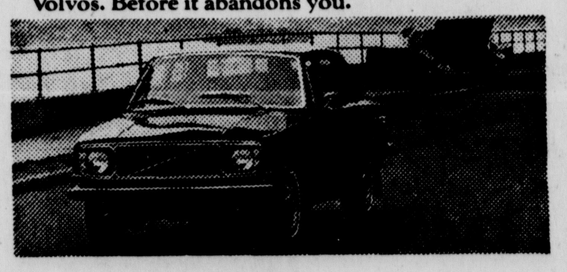

"Well, I'll tell you," said Bruce Devlin, "you'll find a lot of pros around here that would be very, very happy with a 280 after this is over."

MORE AND MORE AMERICANS ARE BEING DRIVEN TO THIS CONCLUSION.

The Police Department of the City of Detroit removes 20,000 abandoned cars from its roadsides annually. The toll is even higher elsewhere. But your car doesn't have to be a statistic.

It can be a Volvo. Volvos are built to stay on the road for years, instead of collapsing prematurely beside it.

Exactly how long a Volvo will last is unknown. But in Sweden, eleven years is average. So beat your car to the punch. Trade it in on one of our Volvos. Before it abandons you.

UCCC Routs Delhi, Waits for XV Seedings

STONE RIDGE

It was Varsity Letter Night at the Senate Gym Wednesday night. Everybody got into the action, as Coach Mike Perry's Senators persevered for a 73-48 victory over Delhi Tech.

Ulster's 22nd win of the season drew only a polite yawn from the UCCC mentor, who is engrossed in other matters these days, like national ratings and the upcoming Region XV tournament where Ulster has a good chance to go all the way for the first time.

"It was one of those lethargic affairs," commented Perry on last night's game. They came in here with a 1-14 record that's hardly conducive to getting the kids fired up."

Perry used all 13 of the kids, assigning rare starting roles to Pat Harder and Linnell Marshall. Ulster shot only 35 per cent from the field, but all 13 players got into the scoring column. Talk about team depth!

Cliff Weeks was high scorer with 9 points and three others—Henry Nixon, Walter Lloyd and Jackie Knowles collected eight. Game honors went to Bob Malinoski, Delhi's 6-3 forward, who potted 22.

Ulster went into the game 16th-ranked in the latest NJCAA poll, three notches behind Manhattan Community of New York. Vincennes Junior College of Vincennes, Indiana held first place with a 23-0 record, 11 first place votes and 182 points. Dalton JC of Dalton, Ga. was runnerup.

Of more immediate concern to Perry and the Senators is the matter of seedings for the Region XV Tournament which starts Thursday, March 2, at New York City Community.

Farmingdale rallied from a 14-point halftime deficit to defeat Manhattan 82-72 in their Tuesday crucial and probably earned the No. 1 seed in the tornament.

"I think that Farmingdale will be seeded No. 1, we'll get No. 2 and Manhattan the third spot," said Perry. He also projected team records of 19-4 for Farmingdale, 23-2 for Ulster and 23-2 for Manhattan when the Region boards meets Sunday at Westchester to draft the final seedings.

Perry's projection presumes an Ulster win over once-mighty Rockland County Friday night at the Senate Gym. A Rockland win is almost an impossiblity. The team's two controversial big guns — Wade Pittman and Larry Frazier — are no longer in uniform and what once shaped up as a climactic showdown to wind up the regular 1971-72 campaign has now been relegated to just another ball game.

Perry attributed Manhattan's collapse in the second half against Farmingdale to the departure of John Freeman, Manhattan's top scorer with 5:15 still left to play. Freeman had 15 points when he exited but this physical presence on the court is what makes Manhattan tough.

"He's probably the best player in the region," said Perry.

Kolln Scores 21 . . . Albany Beats Paltz

Werner Kolln chose a fine night to turn in the best offensive effort of his career.

Kolln, the former Kingston High School basketball standout who has been a defensive star of some note for Albany State, Wednesday poured in 21 points to lead the Great Danes to a resounding 97-65 victory over his neighbors from New Paltz State.

The 6-4 Kingston product, now a junior, connected on nine of his 14 shots from the field and latched onto eight rebounds as Albany won its 19th straight game in its sparkling new gym. The triumph was the Danes' 15th of the season against five losses and raised its State University Athletic Conference mark to 7-2.

New Paltz, 3-7 in the league, is 7-13 overall.

As has been the case so many times in the recent past, New Paltz gave the favorites a run for their money throughout much of the first half before finally succumbing to the abundance of talent thrown at them.

The Hawks' 1-2 punch of Don Valdez and Steve Galuski combined for 27 first half points to keep New Paltz within range at 38-36. Then buckets by Bob Rossi, Kolln, Byron Miller, and Rossi again helped Albany spurt away from the downstaters and eventually hold a 46-36 lead at the buzzer.

WERNER KOLLN

The second half was all Albany as the Danes held the Galuski-Valdez tandem to 12 points while John Quattrocchi and Miller began making valuable contributions for the Danes.

Quattrocchi wound up with 17 markers. Miller had 18 and Rossi 12 to back up Kolln's 21. Werner sat out the final seven minutes while Albany coach Dick Sauers cleared his bench.

Valdez completed the night with 21 points and 19 rebounds for Coach Si Pesavento's Hawks. Galuski had 18. The latter was making his first appearance here since his graduation from Junior College of Albany the year before last.

Albany's freshman team won the opener, 95-69, in a battle of teams with losing records. Pete Dozier scored 23 for New Paltz.

The Hawks are home on Friday against New York State Maritime and at Yeshiva on Saturday. The season ends Tuesday against Paterson State in Elting Gym.

Allen Likes Sox' Offer

By United Press International

Dick Allen said "yes" to a reported $120,000 contract Wednesday but Chicago White Sox General Manager Stu Holcomb wants to see his newly acquired star sign on the dotted line.

Allen, who was obtained from the Los Angeles Dodgers during the winter, has not appeared at the Sox' spring training headquarters in Sarasota, Fla., and all negotiations have been handled by Alfred Morris, his financial advisor in Philadelphia.

"We reached an agreement to terms to the point that when Allen comes down here we can sit down and sign," said Holcomb after a long-distance phone conversation with Morris.

Holcomb also signed outfielder Jay Johnstone and infielder Luis Alvarado.

The world champion Pittsburgh Pirates came to terms with Nelson Briles, the hero of the fifth game of the World Series and their last holdout.

Briles Works Out

Briles, who pitched a two-hit shutout against the Baltimore Orioles, will work out for the first time today, a week after Pirate pitchers were scheduled to report.

The signing of Tim Foli, Ted Martinez, Ken Boswell and Ken Singleton by the New York Mets, left only one player—Don Hahn unsigned. Hahn's whereabouts are unknown but the reserve outfielder is believed to be on his way to Florida from California.

Slugger Frank Howard remained a holdout with the Texas Rangers and General Manager Joe Burke said that the club had "gone as far as we intend to on negotiations. The next move is up to Frank." Catcher Dick Billings is the only other unsigned Ranger.

The Cleveland Indians raised its number of signed players to 33 when pitchers Steve Hargan, Dick Seminoff and Larry Crossan all inked contracts.

With a full squad workout scheduled for today, Billy Williams remained the only Chicago Cub still unsigned. The Cubs' leading hitter, who received $100,000 last season, said he expected "no difficulty" with General Manager John Holland.

Reliever Sparky Lyle came to terms with the Boston Red Sox, leaving only first baseman Mike Fiore unsigned. However, pitcher Sonny Siebert, 16-10 last year, has refused to work out with the club and wants to renegotiate a two-year contract he signed last year.

The Kansas City Royals were left with eight unsigned players when pitcher Bruce Del Canton and first baseman Fran Ortenzio signed contracts.

The New York Yankees immediately took Frank Baker's name off its list of unsigned when the weak hitting shortstop arrived in camp insisting he had "signed last Friday." Baker said he returned his signed contract to Yankee Stadium.

Mike Torres became the 30th player to sign with the Montreal Expos but Carl Morton, Mike Marshall, Rusty Staub, Keith Lampard and Ron Hunt still were listed as holdouts, while Vida Blue and Brant Alyea continue to balk at their 1972 contracts, Diego Segui and rookie Chris Floethe agreed to terms with the Oakland Athletics; second baseman Dick Green also said he would come out of retirement for the second straight season and report to the A's Mesa, Ariz., camp to negotiate, and third baseman Steve Garvey came to terms with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Maroons Clobber Ketcham, 63-47

Should Kingston High School be invited to the Section One basketball tournament it will ride a four-game winning streak into its first match.

The Maroons made it four-in-a-row here Wednesday by beating Roy C. Ketcham of Wappingers Falls, 63-47, ending the regular season with an 11-7 record.

"Ron Burris and Tony Adams played outstanding ball," noted KHS Coach Mike Rienzo. "Tony was devistating on the boards while Burris, a senior, starred on defense as well as offense."

Burris, who had been a solid defensive player all year, capped a somewhat erratic offensive season with 26 points. Adams, the junior center with the unlimited potential, canned 21 points.

A solid first half put Kingston in a commanding situation at intermission, 35-17. In the third period Ketcham chopped the lead down to nine, 45-36, by applying a tough zone defense causing numerous Maroon turnovers.

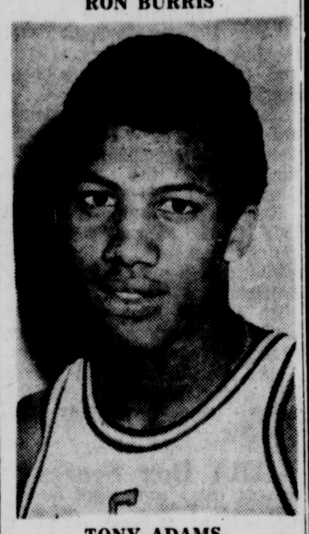

But in the final session, Kingston put on the semi-freeze to bring Ketcham out of its zone and the Maroons were able to maintain the advantage.

Bob Floyd paced Ketcham with 19 points.

At last look, the possibility of Kingston gaining a Section One bid was better than even. The Maroons are a class AA school and the AA tournament includes eight teams. That's how many AA quintets there are so the odds are in KHS' favor. Only if an A, B, or C team is elevated to AA ranks will Kingston be eliminated.

NYACK

Kingston High School's swimming team has had its share of top names, but it took a bunch of relative unknowns to do what no Maroon aqua squad before it could accomplish.

By beating Nyack High, 57-37, here Wednesday, Kingston completed its first undefeated dual-meet swimming season with a 12-0 record.

The Maroons did what they had to do as wins were posted by Jay Rifenbary, Bob Winrow, Jim Gogg, Rick Stuven and Claude Landerway.

Kingston had dedicated the meet to co-captain Charlie Lang, who was out with a leg injury.

Dennis Roth was high scorer for the season with 118 points and Claude Landerway went through the campaign undefeated in the backstroke. The Maroons compete in the Section One tournament next week.

RVC, Ulster Host Mat Tourney

STONE RIDGE — Seedings were announced Wednesday for the upcoming District II high school wrestling tournament.

The event, which will determine the district's entries in the Section Nine mat tourney March 4 at Monroe-Woodbury, opens Friday at Rondout Valley High School and concludes Saturday at Ulster County Community College.

Eight teams will be involved in the district showdown and a team trophy will be awarded, but as chairman Bob Bender of Pine Bush noted, "our main purpose is to get boys to qualify for the sectionals."

All the competing teams are from the Ulster County Athletic League of which Onteora was champion. The District tourney will not have any bearing on that title.

Entered in the tournament are Onteora, Liberty, Wallkill, Red Hook, Pine Bush, Rondout Valley, Ellenville, and New Paltz.

Preliminary competition begins Friday at 5 p.m. at Rondout. Saturday at 10 a.m. quarter-finals will be held in the Senate Gym on the Ulster Community campus. Semi-finals are set for 2 p.m. with consolation finals at 6:30 p.m. and finals at 8 p.m.

Tickets are priced at $2 per session for adults and $1 for students. A package plan has been arranged to cover all the sessions with prices at $5 for adults and $3 for students.

Sesison I will be the Friday event. Session II the Saturday morning matches and Session III the semi-finals. The consolations and finals will be combined for Session IV.

Florida State Makes NCAA

By United Press International

It took just seven minutes to decide an NCAA tournament berth.

That's the time 13th-ranked Florida State needed to break open a close game with interstate rival Jacksonville and move on to a 70-61 victory Wednesday night.

The two clubs entered the game knowing that the winner virtually was assured of an NCAA at-large berth. And for most of the game it looked as if Jacksonville would be making a return trip.

But with 11:53 remaining in the game and Jacksonville leading 52-44, Roland Garrett, a 6-foot-6 senior, sparked a 15-1 Florida State burst that crushed the Dolphins. Garrett finished with 19 points, eight of them during the deciding spurt. David Brent, Jacksonville's 7-foot center, had 16 points to lead the Dolphins.

Jacksonville probably now will settle for a berth in the National Invitation Tournament in New York.

In other action involving ranked teams, North Carolina (3) crushed Georgia Tech 87-66, Louisville (5) routed Cincinnati 93-73, South Carolina (7) stunned 19th-ranked Toledo 94-72 and Virginia (10) stopped Pittsburgh 84-74.

Jim Price and Mike Lawhon each scored 13 points in the second half to lead Louisville over Cincinnati. Price finished with 25 points and Lawhon had 18 while Derek Dickey led Cincinnati with 23.

Tom Riker scored 25 points and Danny Traylor added 21 as South Carolina manhandled smaller Toledo. Kevin Joyce scored 13 of his 19 points in the first half to help the Gamecocks to a commanding 51-27 lead.

Scott McCandlish and Barry Parkhill hit 22 points each in Virginia's triumph over Pittsburgh, the Cavaliers' 20th victory of the season.

Elsewhere, Ollie Johnson scored 18 points to pass the 1,000-point career mark as Temple clobbered Rhode Island 108-64 and Ron Righter's 25-foot jump shot with 25 seconds left gave Duke a 74-73 overtime victory over North Carolina State. Chuck Crist intercepted a pass with eight seconds left and drove in for the winning basket to enable Penn State to defeat West Virginia 80-79 and Greg Kohls' 29 points carried Syracuse to an 87-80 victory over LaSalle.

The game was marred by the ejection of LaSalle Coach Joe DiCicco for throwing a punch at Syracuse's Mark Wadach.

St. Joseph's (Pa.), with Mike Bantom collecting 21 points, downed American University 59-53 and Carl Jackson and Glen Price combined for 53 points in St. Bonaventure's 95-77 rout of Canisius. Jack Wojdowski led a comeback in the last three minutes that enabled Duquesne to beat DePaul 70-65.

Your Horoscope

Friday, February 25

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until noon startling and dramatic influences are in effect that could cause considerable concern about whether changes should be made. However, in the afternoon and evening you see clearly what the wisest course is and can make some long-range plans that can bring a successful conclusion.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr. 19) Don't argue with an associate in the morning. Concentrate on how to have more harmony at home. You have to use caution where some unexpected opportunity arises and then it is yours. Work on it tonight.

TAURUS April 20 to May 20) The morning is not good for stating your thoughts to others, so be sure to have lunch first. Use good methods and judgment and get right results. Stop working so much on the emotions.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Instead of fussing at home or office about delays, etc., get busy on worthwhile outisde activities. Show that you use logic where the future is concerned. Make plans now that are good.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use good judgment and keep your emotions in check. Give others a pat on the back where deserved. Know what it is that is expected of you and try to please to the best of your ability.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can go to librarians, statisticians, etc., to get the information you need for some special project you have in mind. Show you have a good business head on your shoulders. More devotion to mate is wise in p.m.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) The afternoon is best for getting into that group affair that pleases you, brings you in contact with charming people. Make new plans for the future that are brilliant. Try to be more prompt in the days ahead.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you use your Libra charm, you can get the support you need from an influential person today. Search for items that can make your work more efficient and bring in a greater profit. Avoid one who cheats and lies.

SCORPIO Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have an opportunity to secure the information you need from new contacts. You can make those changes that are necessary very easily. Don't give way to histrionics that could get quite annoying.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan with closest tie how to have a more happy and affluent future together and do a little buttering up instead of criticizing. Take care of that responsibility which would have been difficult to do before now. Use right methods.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can clear up that disagreement with an associate provided you are willing to share instead of taking all the profits. Come to a true meeting of minds. Plan some nice trip in the near future. Study brochures.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Become familiar with all the ramifications of some big job you want to do before you tackle it. Show your finest ability at it. Find the right outfit that will last you a long while, though a bit expensive, and it will be a good investment.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) After your work is done, join with people of similar bent where recreation is concerned and have a delightful time. Some fascinating creative idea can be put in operation quietly and successfully now. Do so.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY.. he or she will be one of those people who early in life will always be making changes, stirring things up, but upon reaching maturity will settle down to a steady course of action and be most loyal to the few real friends made who are most worthwhile. Then the success here can be considerable and there will never be want or difficulties that mount to anything. Fine mind for mathematics.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

"DESTROYED": (Q.) I worry myself sick asking myself what is the matter with me and do I still have the ability to love. When I know a guy likes me it turns me off. When I do like a guy, I lose interest in two or three days.

About two years ago I loved someone very deeply. We went steady for over a year and then the big break up destroyed me. Please I need your help!—Drifting in Massachusetts.

(A.) You were wounded, but not destroyed. If you had been destroyed you wouldn't be asking yourself questions.

Your questions prove that time is doing its healing work. Be patient. Soon you will find yourself liking a boy or boys—much more than casually and for much longer than two or three days.

NEPHEW'S EX: (Q.) I am 18 but have a sister who is 35. She is married and has a son who is 17. He is my nephew but we are more like cousins and have been good friends all our lives.

He was going steady with a 16-year-old girl. I liked her and when they broke up I started going steady with her.

My parents say this is wrong and dirty and they keep bugging me to break up with her because my nephew used to go with her. Do you think I should?—Young Uncle in Texas.

(A.) Going with a girl who previously went with your nephew is all right so long as she is a decent girl and you are a decent boy and the two of you are not too far apart in age.

The same goes for going with a girl who used to go with your best friend, or your cousin, or your uncle, or even your brother.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Only letters that include a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be answered.)

'Night Gallery' Is Eerie

NEW YORK (AP) — High point of the television week for adult lovers of macabre, strange and weird stories has to be Wednesday's "Night Gallery" on NBC.

In earlier days, Alfred Hitchcock's half-hour series often spun playful, mischievous horror tales: Rod Serling's contemporary approach is sober and serious, often heightening the effect. It certainly did that in the pair of eerie presentations on the hour this week.

First come a spooky story set in a primitive, famine-beset section of the British Isles, full of damp mists and strange accents. A starving man agreed, on promise of food and three gold pieces, to eat from the chest of a corpse awaiting burial. It was based on a custom called "sin-eating"—the dead man's sins were transferred with the food to another person.

This jolly segment was followed by one about robots in human form programmed to perform menial functions. One vicious couple attempted to torture their pretty robot housemaid, resulting in a revolt of the machine. The revenge was a snapper ending with a Hitchcock twist.

The stories are usually beautifully cast with talented performers—Geraldine Page, Cloris Leachman and Broderick Crawford were among the actors Wednesday night, but there is a strange kind of violence about the series.

Change is in the wind at both NBC and ABC:

James Stewart and "The Jimmy Stewart Show" will not return after this season. The situation comedy, a big disappointment to viewers as well as the star, never has done well.

Johnny Carson's desire to move "The Tonight Show" to Hollywood has been fulfilled. NBC has given the green light to the shift of the show's base to the Burbank studios starting May 1. All of Carson's key people, including Ed McMahon, will move with him.

This should be a break for ABC's "Dick Cavett Show" as far as booking nonshow-business guests is concerned.

Carson's departure means another loss to New York as a TV entertainment production center. Just about all that is left in the East now is a handful of daytime game shows and a number of soap operas.

Tom Kennedy of the syndicated daytime game show, "It's Your Bet," seen on NBC's owned and operated stations as well as elsewhere, will quit the show. He will be replaced March 6 by Lyle Waggoner, the body beautiful on "The Carol Burnett Show."

Tom will jump into the host's spot on ABC's new game show, "Split Second." It starts March 20, replacing reruns of Marlo Thomas' "That Girl."

"Curiouser and curiouser," thought Alice. "I keep getting such good cards here in wonderland. It is about time for something funny to happen in the play so I think I had better misplay this slam."

Alice had learned that scientific bidding was frowned on in Wonderland so she simply bid three and six diamonds and hoped for the best.

The March Hare opened the ace of hearts and shfted to a low club. Alice won in dummy and went through the thinking process mentioned above.

There were three lines of play at her disposal. She could just bang down the ace and king of trumps. This would bring home the slam some one third of the time.

A slightly better line, play one high trump and then go to dummy for a finesse. This would work against a singleton queen either in the East or West hand or against two or three to the queen in the East hand. This play had almost a 40 per cent chance of success.

The best play would be to take a trump finesse and enter dummy for a second finess. This was almost a 50 per cent chance.

So Alice deliberately tried the worst plan and made her Wonderland slam.

A Day in the Life of New China Hand

PEKING (AP) — One day in the life of a New China Hand:

Well, what do you know, it's dawn and already the people of the People's Republic of China are on the rooftops and in the streets doing calisthenics. The 6 a.m. news in Chinese mentions the names President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai several times in a 15-minute broadcast that is immediately followed by an exercise program done by the numbers to revolutionary martial music.

Peking is up and doing by the time President Nixon leaves the government guest house for his morning meeting with the Chinese premier at the Great Hall of the People. The women sweeping the streets with their long brooms scarcely notice the U.S. President behind the dark drawn curtains of his red flag limousine, a massive black vehicle that looks like the love child of an aging Rolls-Royce and 1959 Buick Special.

In a country of 800 million you wonder where everybody is. The Chinese capital that Marco Polo seven centuries ago called the greatest city in the world lacks the teeming life of a modern Asian metropolis. Traffic along the broad boulevards is a whisper of bicycles and trolley buses and a few horn-honking Shanghai-brand green sedans, which look like Checker cabs.

Peking is a city where you seldom see a television antenna, a flock of sparrows, a girl wearing make-up or a dress. Juke boxes are nonexistent, and pianos almost as rare since party Chairman Mao Tse-tung remoulded the musical scene and decided: "In our world the piano is not required."

Pig tails and top knots went out of style long ago. Girls wear their hair braided in two long locks or cut short in a non-nonsense mannish coiffure, and everywhere, even at the ballet, they effect the unisex boiler suit popularized by the chairman.

Sparrows bit the dust several years ago by the million when the whole society was organized against vermin and pests. People spent days on rooftops and trees beating drums and screaming them into constant frightened flight until they dropped from exhaustion, only to have hordes of destructive caterpillars thrive in the absence of their natural enemy.

Aside from the tiled roof palaces of the Forbidden City and what's left of the old city wall, Peking is a drab city of massive neo-Stalinst office buildings and depressing factories, communes and apartment complexes. In levelling away luxury and upgrading the city's poverty to just about subsistence level, the Communist reformers in two decades have come up with an architectural style best described as institutional grim.

"Why does socialism have to be so drab? asks a pretty White House secretary. "You should have been here before the revolution," an old China hand advises her, "when the morgue truck made its rounds picking up the bodies of beggards who had died in the streets during the night."

Chairman Mao's poems and portraits are everywhere in billboard size, but James Reston of the New York Times might have trouble recognizing the city where he left his appendix last summer. The Anti-Imperialist Hospital where he made like a porcupine for the acupuncture anesthetists has been renamed the Capital Hospital and a lot of the old anti-imperialist running dog invective has been removed for the Nixon visit.

Off the main drags, out of view of the Nixon motorcades, some of the more vituperative signs have been only lightly white washed over. The Chinese press guides and interpreters, however, go suddenly myopic when asked to translate the characters showing through, just as they pull up lame and halt at the language barrier when asked an embarrassing question, such as whatever became of Lin Piao, once groomed as Mao's successor but missing from the Politburo since last June.

Diplomatic Maneuvers for Pandas

PEKING (AP) — While U.S. and Chinese leaders maneuver through high level talks, American zoo directors have begun diplomatic maneuvers of their own aimed at getting the two rare giant pandas given to the United States by Premier Chou En-lai.

"There isn't a zoo in this country that wouldn't sell its soul for those pandas," says Jack Simmons, naturalist guide at Seattle's Woodland Park Zoo.

There are only four pandas in captivity outside of China-including a male in Moscow and a female in London. Efforts to mate the bear-like animals have failed. The other two pandas are in North Korea.

But Simmons and most other zoo officials contacted seem resigned to the idea that the two fuzzy, black and white gifts from the Chinese government will wind up at Washington's National Zoo.

"The National Zoo has been the repository for more than 80 years of such gifts from other nations to the United States," said Director Dr. Theodore Reed.

"I would assume we might be called upon once again in this case," he added.

But Reed stressed that there has been no official word from the White House on where the animals would be kept.

The animals were given to Nixon, who is visiting Peking, in return for two North American muskoxen Nixon is presenting to the Chinese.

A Chicago zoo is making its bid for the pandas through political channels. Dr. Lester E. Fisher of Lincoln Park Zoo has contacted an Illinois congressman and was reportedly trying to reach Sens. Adlai E. Stevenson III and Charles Percy for their help as well.

The zoo in San Diego, Calif., has been trying to get a pair of pandas since the early 1940s.

"There is no single animal which has more appeal to the public than the panda, especially to the kids," said Director of Public Relations Bill Seaton.

Cincinnati Zoo Director Ed Maruska said his zoo has had a request indirectly to the Chinese since April. He said the bid was prompted by the suggestion of John Tannehill, a member of the U.S. table tennis team which played in China last year.

Maruska said he could see no way the matter of distributing the pandas could be handled fairly and added that he had offered the Chinese in trade "any type of North or South American animal."

Some Mixed Reaction

By United Press International

Ames Lee, editor of the 1,000-circulation Chinese Daily News, summed up the opinion of Chinese - Americans on President Nixon's trip to China.

"The trip is good," he said for himself Tuesday. "But it depends on your point of view. For the supporters of Taiwan, it obviously is no good, but for the others it is."

Walking tours through the two largest Chinatowns, in New York and San Francisco, turned up a mixed reaction and many persons unwilling to comment.

"I think it's long overdue. I think it should be done," said May Gee, 22, an officer of the Chinese Youth Council in New York.

Many Chinese feared reprisals, either against themselves or against relatives living in Taiwan or China, and therefore, were not willing to talk to reporters, she said.

A Chinese Presbyterian minister who did not want his name published said he thought most Chinese-Americans opposed the President's trip.

Meng Wong, a chef in a tavern in Manhattan, said, "We're very happy. The trip may stop a war between the two countries."

New York's 55,000 Chinatown residents are not unanimous in their loyalties to either Taiwan or Peking. Young Chinese recently arrived from Taiwan in particular have expressed sympathy for Chairman Mao through their organization, I Wor Kuen.

A teen-ager wearing sunglasses and a motorcycle jacket was about to speak to a reporter when the owner of a store whispered something into his ear. "Nothing, no comment," the youth said.

In San Francisco, where nearly 80,000 Chinese-Americans are jammed into a 17-block area familiar to tourists for its gaudy neon lights and dozens of souvenir shops, many also were reluctant to talk. Phil Chew said, "We're all for it. It benefits us in many ways. We're hoping trade will open again between the two countries. We'll be able to get food we can't buy now."

"Savings and Satisfaction"

A doctor who operates on himself has a fool for a patient.
It's an old saying, but it's never made more sense. There are some jobs in life that you just don't tackle by yourself. The preparation of your income tax should be one of them.
And that's where H & R Block, The Income Tax People, come in. H & R Block is America's largest tax service with more than 6,000 conveniently located offices to serve you. Your H & R Block representative is specially trained and can provide information on legitimate income tax benefits and opportunities that the average man on the street doesn't even know exists.
For instance, do you know all about deductions for child care or casualty losses? Or, that if your income increased over the last few years, you may save tax dollars by "income averaging?" And even if you did, would you know how to go about "income averaging" to begin with? Probably not. And there's no reason why you should. After all, you're an amateur when it comes to doing income tax.
H & R Block's charges start at $5 and last year averaged under $12.50 for over 7 million returns we prepared.
And, if we make any error in the preparation of your tax return that costs you any interest or penalty on additional taxes due, while we do not assume the liability for the additional taxes, we will pay that interest and penalty.
Our one time fee entitles you to year 'round tax service and assistance.
Come to the company that more than 7 million Americans placed their confidence in last year. Come to the people who will fill out your next income tax return efficiently, quickly, confidentially. Come to H & R Block.
DON'T LET AN AMATEUR DO H&R BLOCK'S JOB.
